IT EATS IMITATION MICE

Work Force Feels Pinch Of Current Energy Crisis

100,000 Lose Jobs In One Week Last Month

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the United States warning of worldwide economic hazards from the energy crisis, Americans were told today that unemployment at home began rising rapidly in early December because of fuel shortages.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics released a report showing about 100,000 persons lost their jobs because of actual and threatened gasoline shortages in the week of Dec. 9-15 alone. Since then, tens of thousands more workers have lost jobs, particularly in the auto and airline industries.

The jobs report today was based on payroll data collected from employers.

About half of the 100,000 were at the service station and automobile dealer levels. Other areas hit included hotels, motels, transportation, entertainment and utilities.

The airlines have announced furloughs for 15,000 employees while layoffs due to the energy crisis have reached 61,000 in the automobile industry.

Walt Disney World, the giant entertainment complex near Orlando, Fla., cut 2,000 workers from its staff this week, citing a decline in tourist attendance.

The announcements came a day after President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger pressed appeals for a global solution to the energy crisis.

Nixon said it "threatens to unleash political and economic forces that could cause severe and irreparable damage to the prosperity and stability of the world."

As a shortage of gasoline has grown tighter in some areas of the United States, federal officials have been giving greater attention to price gouging and various price-raising gimmicks.

Charles E. Owens, the Federal Energy Office official in charge of price and tax matters, said today that station operators cannot charge for special services —such as wiping windshields —if they did not do so before price controls.

"As far as we are concerned, they amount to a price increase," he said. "If as of the date of price controls, he (the station operator) was not charging to clean windshields, for instance, he cannot now."

Owens also told newsmen that the home heating oil shortage had apparently leveled off, with as much on hand now as storage and market flow could

Road Drunk Arrests Are Way Up

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol arrested 120,799 persons during its crackdown last year on drunken driving, up 26.3 per cent from 1972, it was announced today.

Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski vowed to continue unrelenting pressure on drinking drivers during 1974.

He said the arrests in 1973 had the "effect of helping to reduce by 5 per cent the combined total of deaths and injuries on freeways and roads patrolled by the CHP."

Pudinski expressed surprise at the number of 1973 arrests—"not that we could arrest this number, but because this many drinking drivers were there to be arrested."

He said, "We placed a No. 1 priority on arresting drunks. We followed through in 1973, and the pressure stays on in 1974.

"I hope it hits home because we don't plan to relax."

Pudinski said the number of drunken driving arrests totalled 95,667 during 1972 compared to the much larger 1973 figure.

Pudinski's statement also said, "Tentative figures show that deaths were down 139 to 3,026 and injuries declined 4,612 to 83,615 in CHP-patrolled areas. On a statewide basis, including both CHP and municipal jurisdictions, fatalities dropped 86 to 4,888 or 1.7 per cent."

Beach Access Reduced

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

An agreement which was supposed to increase public access to the beach at Seadrift in Stinson Beach has gone up in a cloud of legal smoke, the North Central Coast Regional Commission learned last night. (See other commission stories page 23.)

The agreement, reached last year between the commission and the exclusive subdivision, instead triggered a recent state Supreme Court decision that moved the boundary lines between public and private property farther out toward the water along 3,400 miles of California shoreline. The decision means that some public access to the Seadrift beach will be lost.

The news clearly caught both the commission and its staff by surprise. Reaction was summed up by Commissioner Frank J. Egger, a Fairfax city councilman, who said "I think we may have blown it."

The commission was told of the court decision by Bolinas Attorney Paul D. Kayfetz, who previously charged its chairman, Marin County Supervisor Michael Wornum, with a conflict of interest for having negotiated the agreement with Roger Kent. Kent's family owns the company developing Seadrift. (Kent is providing his home for Wornum's announcement Sunday of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for state Assembly.)

Kayfetz demanded Wornum's resignation at last night's commission session at the Marin Civic Center, but was ruled out of order by Wornum before he could speak further.

Commissioners, rejecting the possibility they could have been influenced by Wornum to approve the agreement, unanimously adopted a statement that his negotiation with Kent was "in the best interests of this commission and Proposition 20."

The statement was drafted by Commissioner Ellen Johnck of San Francisco, a leader in the 1972 campaign to create the coast commission. She noted that Kayfetz attacked Wornum only after the commission last month unanimously rejected an application by a client of his who wanted to build a house on the sand at Stinson Beach.

Mrs. Johnck said "it appears that his (Kayfetz's) concern for Proposition 20 (which created the commission) depends on how much publicity he desires and who is paying his fee."

Krug Will Seek Bales' Position

Edward M. Krug, 31, of San Rafael, said today he will run against incumbent Bruce B. Bales for the Marin County district attorney's office this year.

Krug, a Sonoma County deputy district attorney who lives at 40 Woodside Way in San Rafael, will officially begin his campaign Wednesday.

Born in San Francisco, he was educated at the University of California and University of San Francisco, receiving his law degree in 1967. He has been deputy district attorney in Sonoma County since 1970, and held the same post in Mendociono County from 1968 to 1970. Before that he was an instructor at Heald College and the University of San Francisco and worked in the federal defender's office in San Diego.

He is married to Pamela R. Krug, a teacher. They have two children.

Bales was reelected with opposition in 1970, and defeated a challenge from Sausalito attorney A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr. in 1966.

Nixon Sends Kissinger To Mideast For Troop Talks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew to the Middle East today with a new "sense of urgency" to try to save the faltering Israel-Egyptian troop withdrawal negotiations. Egypt indicated it would reject a reported Israeli withdrawal plan worked out by U.S. and Israeli leaders.

New artillery and mortar duels were reported along the Suez Canal front between Israeli and Egyptian troops, and Israel reported two of its soldiers killed and five wounded. Tension remained high, and the influential Cairo newspaper Al Gomhouria said Egypt cannot permit the current situation to continue indefinitely.

Syria reported a series of artillery barrages during the morning against Israeli soldiers trying to advance their positions on the Golan Heights and that a number of Israeli soldiers were killed in an exchange of tank and artillery fire in the afternoon. Israel denied an earlier Syrian report that 10 Israelis were killed or wounded in clashes during the night.

Kissinger arrived in Madrid today for two hours of talks with Spanish Foreign Minister Pedro Cortina before flying on to the Egyptian resort city of Aswan for talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. Kissinger will consult Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir in Jerusalem and may pay visits to Jordan and Saudi Arabia. Whether he would visit Syria was not known. Syria has refused to join

The most authoritative statement of the Egyptian position came from Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, editor of the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram and a confidante of Sadat's. He editorially rejected the reported Israeli proposals today, indicating Sadat would do the same.

The Israeli proposals—never announced officially—were discussed by Kissinger and Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan in Washington last week.

Fort Claim Spurs Drake Studies

By JEFF GREER

BERKELEY — The report that Sir Francis Drake's fort may have been found near Bolinas will spur an all-out effort to settle exactly where it was that the English explorer landed in 1579, historians agreed yesterday.

James S. Holliday, executive director of the California Historical Society, said the society would campaign for foundation grants and public support to finance exploration of the Bolinas site revealed yesterday by historian Dr. V. Aubrey Neasham and archaeologist William E. Pritchard. The funding effort almost certainly will include work at two other sites long advocated by other historical researchers as Drake sites, Holliday added.

"There are more hormones generated" by the long-standing Drake landing controversy than any other topic in California historical research, Holliday told the Independent-Journal.

The Drake Navigators' Guild has argued for years that its members have found indications of an ancient fort at Drake's Bay. Vacaville historian Robert H. Power believes strongly that he has evidence Drake dropped anchor either in Corte Madera Creek or along the San Quentin Peninsula.

Power stuck by his guns yesterday, as did a spokesman for the Drake Navigators' Guild, Edward P. von der Porten of Santa Rosa.

Intense interest in the Drake controversy was shown by the fact that four papers on Drake research were presented in the opening of the three-day convention — more than on any other facet of California history. In addition to the reports from Dr. Neasham, Pritchard and Von der Porten, reported in yesterday's I-J, San Francisco State University historian Michael J. Moratto read a paper in which he applied a statistical probability rating scheme to historical evidence on whether Drake landed near Greenbrae or in West Marin.

The evidence is far stronger for West Marin, he concluded.

"Moratto's report was dynamite," Power said. "He was judge and jury; he should let experts in other fields weigh the evidence using his rating system."

Holliday pointed out that even if thorough exploration of the Bolinas site should prove it wasn't Drake's fort, it generates greater mystery — who did build an ancient, dirt-walled fort there centuries before Europeans settled Bolinas?

"If it's not Drake's, you have some unknown explorer we have absolutely no record of," Pritchard added.

Neasham said he was convinced he had found Drake's site. If not, he said the Bolinas fort might prove that Thomas Cavendish, who followed

A Rainy Weekend Is Being Forecast

Marin and Southern Sonoma County residents can expect rain for the weekend, federal weather forecasters said today. The experts said it's unlikely there will be a repeat of last week's snow.

The forecasts said the new storm approaching the Bay Area will be warmer and gentler than last week. Rain chances were put at 80 per cent for tonight and 60 per cent for tomorrow.

Mrs. Fong Bids For Brown's Job

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Promising to work for "major political reforms Democratic Assemblywoman March K. Fong has announced her candidacy to become the first woman secretary of state.

At news conferences yesterday in Los Angeles, Sacramento and San Francisco, Mrs. Fong stressed what she called her "activist style" and seven years experience as a legislator.

Mrs. Fong, 51, said the duties of secretary of state "invite new leadership in working for and bringing about reforms in the electoral process."

She endorsed a sweeping "political reform" ballot initiative sponsored by Common Cause, People's Lobby and Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. The complex measure, which will be on the June ballot, would limit campaign spending and create a statewide elections commission.

A former teacher, university lecturer and county school board member, Mrs. Fong claimed the support of a number of assemblymen, including Willie L. Brown Jr., chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee.

Mrs. Fong became the second woman to announce for the office. Democrat Cathy O'Neill, 31, of Pacific Palisades was the first and she likewise emphasized political reforms.

FDA Backs Blood Test Kit For Cancer Checks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has given approval to a blood test kit which may help doctors detect certain types of cancer.

The test, developed by two Canadian researchers in 1965, may "aid in the diagnosis of certain types of cancer" and can "be useful for monitoring some patients previously treated for cancer for signs of recurrence," a FDA drug bulletin said yesterday.

The FDA said the test might detect cancer in the rectum, colon, lung and pancreas, but added the test—first of its kind to be approved—was not an absolute check.

"In the diagnosis and management of patients suspected or known to have cancer, all other tests and procedures must continue to be given emphasis," the FDA said.

The test was developed by Samuel O. Freedman and Phil Gold of Montreal. The FDA granted Hoffman-LaRoche, Nutley, N.J., a license to sell the test kit.

The two researchers discovered that persons suffering from certain forms of cancer had higher amounts of a certain form of protein— carcinoembryonic antigen — in their blood than normal persons.

But the test is of limited effectiveness, the FDA said, because the protein is also found in large quantities in the blood of heavy smokers, persons with cirrhosis of the liver and inflammatory digestive diseases.

Anniversary Of Cigarette White Paper

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ten years ago today, the U.S. Surgeon General told the public: "Cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrant appropriate remedial action."

People are dying from smoking cigarettes, said then Surgeon General Luther L. Terry in a report seen now by supporters and critics alike as a public health benchmark.

Government smoking reports since then have confirmed the 1964 conclusions that cigarette smoking is not only a major cause of lung cancer and chronic bronchitis but is associated with illness and death from chronic bronchopulmonary disease, heart and lung diseases and other maladies.

But there is no surgeon general anymore. The office has been downgraded to a paper-shuffling job without authority and is now vacant.

And cigarette consumption has increased from 523.9 billion cigarettes in 1963 to an estimated 583 billion last year. However, the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health says the increase is related to population growth and that per capita consumption is down from 4,345 cigarettes a year per smoker to 4,130 last year.

Cigarette packages still carry the language: "Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking is Dangerous To Your Health."

Cigarette advertising is banned from radio and television. Many public and private offices now have signs advising people not to smoke. Segregation of smokers is increasing in public transportation and other public places.

But Horace R. Kornegay, president of the industry's Tobacco Institute, in a statement issued for the 10th anniversary of the first report, said: "...the Surgeon General's report was much more a beginning than an end in the smoking-health controversy."

Energy Council To Study Report

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A report recommending that the Office of Science and Technology be the state's chief monitoring group has been sent to the energy Planning Council for study, Gov. Ed Reinecke says.

Reinecke, chairman of the council, said Wednesday the report was put together by OST and calls for accelerated research and development programs in California to curb the energy crisis.

"This report," Reinecke said, "is an important first step toward California solving its energy problems."

The report specifies nuclear, solar, geothermal, coal, oil shale, and solid waste as sources for additional energy

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Deputy's Swearing In Delayed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor Abe Beame yesterday postponed the swearing-in of Joseph Galiber as the city's first black deputy mayor because of questions about the state senator's handling of $2,050 in campaign contributions.

Galiber

The investigation centers on how the money, donated in the form of corporate checks, was spent. It was collected at a testimonial dinner last April for Sen. Galiber's unsuccessful bid for city controller. State laws forbids corporations from making campaign contributions.

Galiber said he put the money into a "community services office" account, drew some or all out to reimburse himself for previous political expenses and then used it to pay campaign workers.

Waldheim Sees Suez Solution

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said yesterday he believed chances were good that Israeli and Egyptian troops along the Suez Canal could be separated "within the next few weeks."

He warned, however, that bringing peace to the Middle East will be "a long and hard task."

Asked at a news conference about prospects for disengagement of Israeli and Egyptian troops, now being negotiated at the Geneva peace conference, Waldheim said, "I believe that the chances of success are good."

Comedian Cleared

ATLANTA (UPI) — Junior Samples, the rotund comedian of television's "Hee Haw" show, was acquired yesterday of charges that he knocked down a woman who pestered him at an American Legion dance.

"I'm a lover, not a fighter," Samples told Fulton Atlanta County criminal court Judge Woodrow Tucker after denying that he struck the woman, a long-time acquaintance of his.

Mrs. joyce Almond, who charged Samples with simple battery, testified that Samples hit her with his fist last Feb. 25 at nearby Alpharetta when she touched his shoulder to get his attention.

After the blow, she said, she fainted and was placed on a pool table where she was revived with ammonia.

Rockets Into City

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian rebels fired three rockets into Phnom Penh at dawn today, killing one person and wounding nine. A simultaneous shelling killed a girl and wounded four other persons at a refugee camp outside the capital.

The attacks came on the sixth day of an insurgent offensive apparently aimed at isolating Phnom Penh from the rest of the country.

New IRA Attacks

BELFAST (UPI) — Extremists carried out a series of bomb and bullet attacks across Northern Ireland last night in what authorities said might mark a high-point in the latest Irish Republican Army terror campaign.

A bomb exploded without warning at the Carrick-a-Reed hotel in the fishing village of Ballintoy on the northwest coast, injuring nine.

A bomb went off behind a magistrate's courthouse in downtown Belfast, blowing out several windows. Another bomb exploded harmlessly on a quay at Donegall.

Fuel Crackdown

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan, an industrial giant hard hit by the energy crisis, today ordered a strict new fuel-saving program. Officials said it would plunge nighttime Tokyo into darkness reminiscent of the era after World War II.

The order for industry to reduce its electricity and oil consumption by 15 per cent was taken despite the expectation that oil shipments from the Middle East would increase this month because of Tokyo's shift to a pro-Arab policy.

The order included a ban on neon and advertising signs.

Arrests Give Leads In School Leader's Murder

OAKLAND (UPI) — Police say the arrest of two men allegedly involved in a gunfight with a Concord officer has provided them with "new leads" in the murder of Oakland school Supt. Marcus Foster, shot to death last November.

A group called the "Symbionese Liberation Army" claimed responsibility for Foster's assassination and police said the organization's literature was found in a truck after the shoot-out yesterday with the vehicle's occupants.

Concord police said the two men opened fire during a routine police identification check. The truck was first stopped because it was cruising suspiciously through the quiet neighborhoods of the suburban Contra Costa County town.

The men booked at the Contra Costa County jail were identified as Joseph M. Remiro, 27, San Francisco and Robert J. Scalise, 27, Oakland.

Scalise had an alias of Robert J. Little, according to the booking desk at the jail.

Both men were booked for investigation of assault with intent to commit murder stemming from the shoot-out.

Police said Scalise suffered a superficial shoulder wound in the gunfight and Remiro was arrested after fleeing from the truck.

Officers would not describe the literature found in the truck but Oakland Homicide Lt. Waller Prentice said the articles "provided us with some new leads."

Foster, a widely-popular official, was cut down as he entered a dimly lit parking lot behind the school district headquarters Nov. 6.

His assistant, Deputy Superintendent Robert Blackburn, was seriously wounded by a shotgun blast.

The Symbionese Liberation Army claimed in letters to the media that the administrators had been targeted for killing because of their support of "police on campus" and "a bio-identification card" program.

Police said Scalise was armed with a .380-caliber Walther automatic pistol, the caliber type of gun that killed Foster.

Foster was killed by bullets laced with cyanide and the terrorist group reported the unusual means of death in one of its letters. The fact that cyanide bullets were used had not been known by the public.

A statement by the district attorney's office in Oakland said ballistics tests were continuing.

Prison Ban On Religion Questioned

"I believe that in America we ought to have freedom of religion. It seems to me this is an infringement of that right," said a Mill Valley minister critical of a tough new policy banning religious services at San Quentin Prison.

Rev. Robert Hymers, pastor of the Church of the Open Door, yesterday told the Independent-Journal he recently was denied entry to the prison, where he taught a Friday night Bible study class.

"Men are in prison because of a serious spiritual disorder," Hymers said. "Religion is beneficial to them."

Prison information officer William Nyberg confirmed that all religious services and classes were discontinued Dec. 1, part of a general lockdown aimed at curbing rampant violence at the institution.

He denied a claim by Hymers that encounter groups are still being conducted at San Quentin. "There is no group program at all and there won't be until we're off the lockdown," Nyberg said.

According to Nyberg, the ban will be eased somewhat this Sunday, when Jewish, Catholic and Protestant services will be conducted for men in the West Block Honor Unit. The only break in the new policy was a brief Catholic Mass in the West Block rotunda and visits by prison chaplains to individual inmates in their cells.

"I question this policy as an outsider. It seems to me that if there is a danger, some precautions can be taken," said Hymers, an ordained Southern Baptist Minister and graduate of Golden Gate Theological Seminary in Mill Valley.

Novato Rotary Planning Housing For The Elderly

The Novato Rotary Club hopes to construct a 20 to 30 unit housing project for senior citizens, according to John G. Studer, Rotary director of community services.

The club has an option to buy a half-acre lot with existing house at 1124 Olive Avenue, with purchase conditioned on gaining necessary approval for the project.

The property was chosen because it is within walking distance of downtown Novato and the Marin County Housing Authority's elderly housing project is nearby.

Total value of the project has been estimated at $250,000, but it is expected that donated services and materials will reduce the cost to $170,000.

The club will seek rezoning of the property from single-family residential to multiple family as the initial step in a process expected to take from 18 months to two years before the project is constructed.

After the housing is completed, it will be turned over to the Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin which will administer the project.

Nine Become U.S. Citizens

Three Marin County residents became naturalized citizens this month in U.S. District Court in San Francisco and six Petaluma residents received citizenship papers from Superior Court in Napa.

HOW TO SOLVE GAS SHORTAGE

"Save gas—drive in neutral" is the advice given motorists who pull into Bob Hamilton's Texaco Station in Ignacio. The suggestion, however, seems about as practical as the bumper stickers which advise, "Fight smog—ride a horse."

Measures Taken To Cut Jet Fuel

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Alexander P. Butterfield, administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), said Wednesday the FAA has implemented several conservation measures that could save as much as 2.7 per cent of daily airline fuel consumption.

Butterfield said the measures included a system of "gateholds" that keeps planes at their departure gate with engines idled until it is certain the flight will not be delayed at its destination.

Housing Authority Sets Goals For '74

Training in job skills for unemployed black youths in Marin City, more housing for senior citizens and other low-income groups, increased social services and improved tenant relations are among goals for 1974 outlined this week by commissioners of the Marin County Housing Authority.

Job training is necessary to combat soaring unemployment among black young people, estimated at between 10 and 25 per cent (compared to six per cent for white youth), according to Irving Perlman, chairman of the authority board.

Meeting Wednesday, the board discussed training and other social service programs through government and volunteer agencies in an effort to improve living conditions and relations between the authority and its tenants, Perlman said.

If they are declared surplus, the authority will try to obtain 152 units at Hamilton Air Force Base for senior citizen housing. Voter referendums to approve new housing for seniors in San Rafael and Novato were suggested, according to Perlman.

Also suggested, he said, was a housing corporation, consisting of the authority and private firms, to build market rate housing in Marin.

The board chairman said the authority will continue its campaign to end rent evasion by tenants, "which is a problem we will work very hard to overcome."

Domino Tourney Will Benefit Marin Symphony

A domino tournament to benefit the Marin Symphony Association will be held Saturday at the Hamilton Air Force Base Officers' Club in Novato.

Registration for the event, sanctioned by the International Domino Association, will be from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Saturday. Games will be from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 2 to 4 p.m.

Top prize of $500 will go to the winning team. Entry fee is $25 per person and $50 per team. The fee includes lunch.

More information may be obtained at the Marin Symphony office at Crocker Bank, Fourth and B Streets, San Rafael.

Owners Asked To Obey Parking

Owners of cars parked overnight in the Mountain View area of San Rafael will be asked to park elsewhere by members of the Black Canyon Neighborhood Association.

Howard Levenson, association president, said the group voted 18-to-12 last night to encourage residents not to park on the street at night. Levenson said that if the flyers are ignored the association will request police enforcement of the parking ordinance which forbids overnight parking.

Levenson also said cars sometimes park on the sidewalks and force children to walk in the street and that they block already narrow streets.

Novato Rate For Garbage To Increase

Novato residents can expect a 16 per cent increase in the garbage disposal rates, according to Charles A. Joseph, engineer-manager of the Novato Sanitary District.

The board last night accepted the sanitary disposal committee's recommendation that single can rates be increased from $2.15 to $2.50 per month and the second can rate from $1.35 to $1.50 per month.

The commercial rates for collection bins would be increased 15 per cent per month, Joseph said.

The board set 6 p.m., Jan. 28, for final hearing and action on the recommendation.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

PLANNING — Voted to oppose a federal-state proposal for a regional planning agency for Marin and Southern Sonoma Counties, since the work of such an agency is now being done by the local districts. It instructed Joseph to communicate their opposition to the State Water Resources Control Board.

ANNEXATIONS — Annexed 8.2 acres on Simmons Lane near Leese Lane, owned by Mary Scurlock, Rose Beck, Emily Beebe, Eva Sheehan, and Manuel Azavedo, and a single parcel on Novato Boulevard belonging to Marguerite Balz.

MAINS — Accepted main extension for Glen Hill Unit 1 subdivision on the north side of Hill Road east of Tamalpais Avenue and an extension to Evans Products Co. in the Novato Auto Mart Subdivision west of Highway 101 at Ford Way.

Girl Thwarts Attack Try

A 16-year-old girl managed to thwart a rape attempt this morning in Mill Valley.

Police said that the girl, who was leaving for school in San Francisco at about 6 a.m., was grabbed near the corner of Gomez Way and Miller Avenue by a man who stepped out of a dark area.

She struggled away and fled, police said, and later went to Kaiser Hospital in San Rafael for treatment of cuts.

No description was available of the man, who was not armed.

ENERGY

handle.

Owens said the fact it is becoming harder to sell high priced foreign heating oil shows that the problem has "about topped out." He said as inventories are being used they are being replaced.

Nixon, from the Western White House in California, released the text of letters to eight major oil consuming countries inviting them to a Feb. 11 foreign ministers energy meeting in Washington.

The identical letters to the heads of state said that the energy shortage "threatens to unleash political and economic forces that could cause severe and irreparable damage to the prosperity and stability of the world."

His message went to the governments of Canada, Japan, West Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway and Britain.

In Brussels, the Common Market announced yesterday it will decide next week whether member nations will attend the Washington talks on an individual basis or under Common Market auspices. Four of the nine market members were not invited—Belgium, Luxembourg, Ireland and Denmark.

In Worcester, Mass., Sen. Edward M. Kennedy criticized the exclusion of the four. Deputy Presidential Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the administration wanted to keep the conference small and hoped the large nations could act for all nine.

The President also released letters to 13 oil-producing nations asking them to join the consumers in a later meeting in Washington.

Kissinger, before flying off on another crisis Middle East mission, echoed the President in warning at a Washington news conference on energy that "no single country can solve the problem by itself."

"It is essential for all concerned to understand we are truly interdependent," he said, adding "we believe unrestricted bilateral competition would be ruinous."

In an obvious allusion to the 27 million ton oil deal worked out by France with Saudi Arabia, Kissinger said "even those who steal a march" cannot avoid a future crisis over oil supplies.

COAST

lic access along the Seadrift beach was lost becuase of the court action remained unresolved, but commissioners agreed to reopen the agreement at the Jan. 24 meeting at 7 p.m. in San Francisco City Hall.

Sharply contrasting estimates of the remaining public access were offered newsmen by Kayfetz and William Kent III, who runs development of Seadrift. Kayfetz said the only remaining public lands are under water two-thirds of the year, while Kent said this was so only during winter.

Kent added that while the 124 homeowners along the beach legally could bar public use of most of the beach, they have and will continue to allow the public on the private portions of the beach so long as people stay off the dunes in front of their homes.

The agreement between the commission and subdivision was reached as a condition of approval for continued expansion of the development. The Regional Water Quality Control Board, however, subsequently barred further construction until a sewage treatment system replaces existing septic tanks. This probably will take more years than the commission has before it goes out of existence in 1977.

Twenty-one homes were approved for the Seadrift before the water board imposed its ban. An application for another was shelved to give the staff time to look into the Seadrift agreement.

Kayfetz stressed his belief the commission acted out of ignorance not collusion with Seadrift, when it approved the agreement that had such an immediate effect on the Supreme Court.

Wornum conceded to the Independent-Journal that he was wrong to have claimed last month that the agreement had "opened up the beach to the public." He had made the statement in a rebuttal to Kayfetz's conflict of interest charge against him.

Kayfetz distributed to commissioners 15 pages of argument and documents to back his charges against Wornum.

They paralleled his previously reported complaints about the agreement and Wornum's role in negotiating it.

The commission postponed to Feb. 21 a hearing on a developer's plan to divide a ranch on Bodega Bay into 20 lots averaging less than 300 feet in width and more than a mile in length.

'Final Touches' Are Put On Retirement Plan

The Novato Fire Protection District board has put "the final touches" to a new retirement program for district personnel, according to Fire Chief Jack W. Kidder.

The new plan, approved Wednesday, lowers the retirement age from 60 to 55 years and provides benefits based on years of service and salary rather than the across-the-board $415 a month currently paid.

The retirement plan, by Mutual of New York Insurance Co., is comparable to the retirement program of the state Public Employees System, Kidder said.

FORT

Drake's historic route eight years later, sailed farther north than historians had thought. It is commonly believed the second English expedition sailed westward from Baja California instead of following Drake's path and cruising the Oregon coast, anchoring in Marin waters and then sailing westward.

Pritchard said that regardless of who built the mysterious structure, it is the oldest European construction in California and possibly the oldest English-built site in the Western Hemisphere.

Pritchard and Neasham are seeking $25,000 for a thorough exploration of the Bolinas site, which is on county park land.

"If you let me dig one corner (that he suspects may conceal remains of a bastion typical of 16th Century English forts) I'll know if we've got Drake's fort," Pritchard said with conviction.

Neasham suggested, and Holliday agreed, that the state historical society should seek foundation grants and public funds to finance thorough exploration of all the Marin sites, particularly in view of the approaching 400th anniversary of Drake's landing.

Nine Puppies Die In Fire

Nine puppies were burned to death Wednesday when a fire broke out at their kennels at 1161 Western Avenue in Petaluma.

The fire apparently started when one of the dogs — all registered airedales — knocked an electric heater to the floor, according to a spokesman for the Sonoma County Division of Forestry, which put the fire out.

The dogs and the kennels belonged to Linda Richardson of Petaluma.

Damage to the building was estimated at $300. Each of the puppies was reportedly worth $100. The mother airedale was not injured.

Six Topics To Be Studied By Tam Group

Six topics were outlined last night by the Tamalpais High School District Citizens Advisory Committee for study this year.

Elaine Brockbank, committee chairman, said studies will be made of district counseling, home-school transportation, attendance policy, year-round school, site utilization and community service.

She said subcommittees are already reviewing some topics.

The groups will be seeking information from district schools and residents in the next few months and reports to district trustees will probably be made in May.

Design For Motel, Office Is Approved

Members of the Tamalpais Design Review board last night approved interior and exterior design plans for a motel and office building at Howard Johnson's restaurant, 160 Shoreline Highway, according to board spokesman Curry Eckelhoff.

The board flatly rejected a bid by Michael Clements to operate a used car sales lot at Tamalpais Junction, Mrs. Eckelhoff said.

SAMUEL J. POPEIL

Wife, Lover Accused Of Plot To Murder

LONG BEACH (UPI) — Eloise Popeil, estranged wife of Chicago millionaire Samuel J. Popeil, and her boyfriend were arraigned yesterday on charges of trying to hire a killer to assassinate Popeil, possibly at a trade show in Chicago today.

Bail for Mrs. Popeil, 43, now of Newport Beach, Calif., and Daniel M. Ayers, 37, of Santa Anna, Calif., was set at $200,000. They were charged with conspiracy to commit murder and remanded to jail.

Deputy District Attorney Charles Sheldon said the suspects tried to hire two men to kill Popeil, offering them $50,000 apiece. The two men, who have not been identified, reported the offer to police, Sheldon said.

Long Beach police said that during a taped telephone conversation between the suspects and the two men, the plotters suggested that Popeil could be killed at a housewares exhibit at the International Amphitheater in Chicago today.

"That was one of the alternatives they considered," a police spokesman said. "They knew where he was going to be but had no definite plan."

In the telephone conversation, The district attorney's office said, Mrs. Popeil had described the layout of her husband's Drake Towers apartment and his office, and spoke of killing his maid and chauffeur if necessary.

Authorities said Mrs. Popeil would have acquired about one third of Popeil's fortune, estimated at about $200 million, if he died before their pending divorce was complete. Popeil's firm, Popeil Bros., Inc., manufactures household items.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Jan. 21 before Municipal Court Judge Charles S. Litwin.

Nixon Ready To Suspend Wheat Import Quotas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is prepared to suspend wheat import quotas as a hedge against possible domestic shortages, according to an administration official.

The prediction followed warnings from the bakery industry Wednesday that exports would deplete U.S. wheat supplies by next spring and possibly force the price of bread to $1 for a large loaf.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said he had no doubt a Tariff Commission study expected Feb. 15 would recommend suspension of the 33-year-old import quotas. The commission began its study at Nixon's request.

Agriculture Department officials have denied the bakers' claim that large exports will wipe out U.S. wheat reserves before the nation begins to reap an expected record 2 billion bushel crop next summer.

But they said that a suspension of import quotas would provide insurance for consumers against any possible domestic shortage. One official described it as a "safety valve allowing big wheat supplies in Canada to flow down here."

"I don't see legally how we can continue to have import restrictions on wheat at present," the official added.

In Tucson, Ariz., meanwhile, Dr. Robert E. Dennis, a University of Arizona agronomist, said the United States is a long way from the $1 loaf bread, mainly because the average loaf now contains only about a nickel's worth of wheat.

Halt In School Bus Runs Unlikely, Official Reports

Despite widespread worries about the energy crisis halting school buses, a county official predicted today that Marin's school buses will run unhampered through January, and probably the rest of the school year.

Robert E. Spain, assistant superintendent of county schools, said only his office — and none of the county's many districts — had felt the pinch so far.

The county office transports about 525 handicapped students in 35 minibuses. It lost 10 per cent of its normal fuel allocation last month when federal officials cut back the Marin Municipal Water District fuel by 10 per cent. The water district supplies the county office with bus fuel.

Spain said January should hold no problems because it is a short month in terms of the number of school days. By February, he predicted, new federal guidelines for school bus fuel allotments will be drafted. He noted that Dr. Heln D. Wise, president of the National Education Association, reported yesterday that federal officials promised school districts would get 100 per cent of their fuel needs.

Three Cable TV Firms File Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three cable television corporations filed a $9.5 million antitrust suit in U.S. District Court yesterday against Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The suit by Group Cable Inc., of San Andreas, Multi-View Systems of Woodland and Feather River TV Cable Inc. of Portola asks that the litigation be made a class action on behalf of all 200 such firms in the state.

The suit charged the utility and several telephone companies with monopolistic practices.

Effective Jan. 1, PG&E doubled the charges to cable TV companies for use of its poles.

Football, Maybe, But Super Bowl It Isn't

The eighth annual "Gopher Bowl" game — pitting the county public works rough and tumble boys against the county counsel's legal eagles -- will be fought out tomorrow at Forest Meadows in San Rafael.

The football championship was won last year 6-0 by the attorneys in what Mario Balestrieri, captain of the public works boys, called an illegal move.

The play involved the quarterback faking to Dick Godino, assistant county counsel, and then firing a bullet to insurance agent Jack G. Nixon, a San Rafael city councilman.

"Some of them had rubber cleated shoes, whereas we only had tennis shoes," Balestrieri protested.

Kickoff for this year's event is slated for noon. In keeping with past policy, starting lineups were not revealed.

Campaign Coffees

Campaign coffees for Lyn Fischbein, San Anselmo City Council candidate, will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the John Barrows home, 265 Crescent Road and 8 p.m. Thursday at the Jack Olive home, 7 Agatha Court.

Impact Reports On Two Drake Boulevard Projects 'Inadequate'

Environmental impact reports on two developments proposed along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard are "slightly inadequate," the Fairfax Design and Environmental Review board found last night.

The reports, drafted by Lampman and Associates of Walnut Creek, outline controversial plans for 80 units on the 3.44-acre Buon Gusto restaurant site between Olema Road and Broadway Avenue, and for 20 units on a 38,337-square-foot parcel just southeast of Oak Manor Drive.

Board chairman Lee Eckles said both Lampman reports were "slightly inadequate," asked for "minor additional information," and scheduled another hearing on both projects for 8 p.m. Feb. 14 in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The Buon Gusto project, proposed by landowner Eleanor McArdle Jean and McKeon Construction Co., would place 20 one-bedroom apartments and 60 two-bedroom apartments in 15 two-story structures on the boulevard site.

Eckles said the board felt the density of the project is too great, and suggested that the development be reduced to only 52 units.

The project would require paved surfaces over 88 per cent on the site, require 176 parking places, generate 480 automobile trips daily and house 200 people, according to the report.

Eckles said the board asked Lampman and Associates to provide city officials with more traffic count information, show how the project relates to possible development of adjacent parcels and how it conforms to the city zoning ordinance, and study the archaeological significance, if any, of the development site.

Board members voiced much the same concerns about the 20-unit project, proposed by owner Torger Silnas and architect Robert W. Severin for a parcel adjacent to St. Augustine's Episcopal Church, Eckles said.

The project would house about 50 upper income persons in three structures, require 44 parking spaces and generate 120 auto trips daily, according to the impact report.

The report indicates that the project would cover nearly half of the site with paved surfaces, and claims the proposal is incompatible with the town general plan since it exceeds recommended density for the area.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI said today 134 law enforcement officers were killed by criminal action in the line of duty last year, the biggest toll since it started keeping records.

Behr Rated Medium As Conservationist

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, known as a leading conservationist in the Legislature, today was ranked 18th among his 39 colleagues in the upper house by a group measuring 1973 votes on environmental issues.

Marin's other state legislator, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was ranked 54th among 79 colleagues in the lower house.

The annual report was made by Legislative Birdwatchers, a group of volunteers who spend vast hours watching virtually every public meeting of each house and their committees.

Behr voted "right" 72 per cent of the time, and Bagley's votes met the group's approval on 69 per cent of the issues.

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, a possible candidate for Congress to replace Rep. William S. Mailliard, was ranked fifth from the top in the Senate, with an 89 per cent vote for environmental issues.

Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, already a candidate for Mailliard's seat, was ranked 27th in the Assembly with an 85 per cent environmental vote.

The rates were based on a tally of committee and floor votes on 33 environmental bills.

Avalanche Warning Issued Backpackers

BISHOP (UPI) — The increased threat of avalanches in the Sierra wilderness prompted the U.S. Forest Service yesterday to advise all backpackers to check with rangers before traveling through remote snow-covered regions.

Authorities said all persons intending to travel through the sierra wilderness should check first with district offices in Lee Vining, Mammoth Lakes, Bishop or Lone Pine.

The board also boosted Elliott's pay from $26,294 to $28,000 annually, effective July 1.

Elliott, 42, said he viewed the action as a vote of confidence.

Elliott, formerly assistant superintendent of the Fullerton, Orange County, School District, was hired in June 1972.

Bad Weather Lashes Most Of The Nation

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Sleet and freezing rain iced roads in New York and southern New England today, heavy snow covered most midwestern states, torrential rains flooded sections of the lower Mississippi Valley and a new sub-zero cold wave moved into the Plains states.

The murky national weather mixture appeared to belie widespread expert forecasts of a mild winter.

Southeastern New York, including New York City, staggered with five inches of snow Wednesday and two more yesterday, was hit today with freezing rain. To further slow traffic, fog cut drivers' visibility.

Sleet and freezing rain glazed the Albany, N.Y. area and risky driving conditions forced most schools to close.

An ice storm downed trees and power lines in portions of New England and Boston's public transportation system ran well behind schedule because of slippery streets.

Hundreds of schools closed for the second day. Highway authorities warned drivers of hazardous streets in Ohio.

A zero cold wave chilled northern and central portions of plateau Rockies, the Plains and the upper Mississippi Valley. The cold air mass was expected to push into the now-covered Midwest.

Abalone Diver Killed By Shark

ADELAIDE, Australia (UPI) — A 10-foot white shark ripped off Terrence Manuel's right leg Wednesday as he was diving for abalone off the west coast of South Australia. He died shortly afterward.

Manuel, 26, was diving for the shellfish in 30 feet of water 150 yards offshore when the shark appeared, his companion John Talbot said.

The shark, believed to be a White Pointer, tore Manuel's leg off as Talbot struggled to drag his friend into their boat.

Talbot said he was shelling the catch when Manuel surfaced 150 yards from their 14-foot open dinghy and yelled "shark!"

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke has appointed former Republican Assemblyman Don Anderson to manager his campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Sextuplets Born, All Reported Doing Well

CAPE TOWN (UPI) — A 25-year-old woman gave birth to South Africa's first sextuplets today. A hospital spokesman reported the three boys and three girls in good condition.

The babies, born almost a month prematurely to Mrs. Susan Rosenkowitz, had a combined weight of less than 25 pounds, the spokesman said.

Doctors delivered the babies by Caesarian section in less than ten minutes.

Because of the premature birth, the major risk was that the babies' lungs would be under-developed and incapable of independent operation, a spokesman at the Morbray Maternity Hospital said.

An oxygen tube was inserted in the windpipe of each child and the lungs inflated. After this initial boost, the babies in each case cried lustily and continued to breathe on their own, the spokesman said.

In order of delivery the babies, all with brown hair were boy 4.4 pounds, girl 2.8 pounds, boy 4.5 pounds, girl 4 pounds, boy 4.1 pounds, and girl 4.3 pounds.

None of the complications for which doctors were prepared actually arose, the hospital spokesman said.

Mrs. Rosenkowitz regained consciousness soon after the operation and was in a "very satisfactory condition."

Her husband, Colin Rosenkowitz, did not watch the operation but was "relieved" when it was all over, the spokesmen said.

State Post Is Taken By Parodi

Stephen L. Parodi, curriculum coordinator with the Marin County schools office for two and a half years, this week was named a field representative for the state Department of Education.

Parodi, a former superintendent of the Ross and San Anselmo school districts, will serve with the department's bureau of management services.

He will receive a $22,932 annual salary for consultant work to school districts and county school offices on school business administration.

Parodi, 57, is a native of San Francisco.

Following World War II, he taught in Larkspur schools, then went to Mill Valley where he was principal of Park School for five years.

He was superintendent and principal of Ross School District for eight years until being named superintendent of the San Anselmo district in 1960. He served there until the end of the 1970-71 school year.

Parodi and his wife, Marie, live at 62 Peninsula Road in Belvedere, but Parodi soon will move to Sacramento.

Service Halted

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Yellow Cab Co. halted service in Berkeley yesterday after the City Council refused to approve a 19 per cent fare increase.

Survivor Of 55-Day Ordeal In Pacific Never Gave Up Hope

HONOLULU (UPI) — Five fishermen whose boat drifted 55 days in the Pacific said they survived by catching fish, drinking rain water and playing cribbage.

"We had good fishing," said skipper Lambert Kanakaole, 22, Honolulu.

"I feel fine but I guess I lost about 90 pounds," he said.

The fisherman said he weighed close to 300 pounds when his vessel's engine broke down Nov. 12 off Christmas Island.

The boat, a sampan, drifted until Jan. 1 when it was spotted by a Japanese fishing vessel 1,400 miles southwest of here.

The men made such a racket when they saw the Japanese boat they thought their rescuers might think "we were having a New Year's party," said Don Van Cleave, Albany N.Y.

Rescued along with Kanakaole and Van Cleave were Gale Middleton, 25, Lansdale, Pa., Ed Yamamoto, Honolulu and Frederick Monroe, also of Albany.

The five men returned Wednesday night on a special flight from Eniwetok atoll.

Yamamoto said the men kept their spirits up by "staying together."

Monroe said he had "occasional" doubts about the possibility of rescue but said he never gave up hope.

Kanakaole said there were dangerous moments and recalled that a shark "bigger than the boat" circled the 47-foot sampan Kamokila for almost a day.

Another Novato Hearing Monday On Conformity

The Novato Planning Commission will have another of a series of rezoning hearings to bring parcels into conformity with the Novato General Plan at 8 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House.

The proposed rezoning includes argicultural zoning of five acre lots on the Bay plains from Atherton Avenue to the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. tracks, along both sides of Highway 37.

The commission also will hear an appeal by Robert Nave of conditions imposed by the Novato Plan Review Committee for improvements in connection with rehabilitation of the Nave Shopping Center, South Novato Boulevard.

The committee approved plans for demolition of the center's main wing to make way for a new food market, but Nave has appealed the condition that he install new curb, gutter and sidewalks in front of the center.

Bandit Cleans Out Station In Petaluma

A solitary bandit cleaned out a Petaluma service station last night, escaping with an unknown amount of cash.

William Olsen, an attendant at Thompson's Shell station at 801 East Washington Street, told police the robber hailed him from a telephone booth outside the station about 7:45 p.m. and told him to bring the station's cash to him.

Olsen said the man intimated he had a gun inside a coat.

The thief left on foot after taking the money. Petaluma police said he was a caucasion about 20 years old, 5 feet, 8 inches tall with brown hair, wearing blue jeans and a blue shirt.

Police Chief Out Of A Job

BRISBANE (UPI) — The police chief of this town's 10-man force is out of a job because he won't go along with the firing of three patrolmen for economy reasons.

"The new city manager just fired me," Bill Beard, 41, father of five boys, said Wednesday.

Beard had told the city council that he would quit if the three lowest ranking patrolmen were dismissed to save money.

Beard said the Brisbane Police Employees Association would file civil lawsuits demanding that the council show cause why the three should be fired.

THIS YEAR THERE'LL BE LESS SPACE TO TURN AROUND IN. YOU NEED A VOLVO.

The Volvo 164E squeezes into spaces domestic luxury cars can't because there's about three feet less of it. But inside, there's room for five big adults. Those in the front can go up to 6'6". Those in the rear enjoy as much legroom as in a Lincoln Continental Mark IV.

Just remember our name when you're ready to buy a Volvo 164E. So you'll know who to turn to.

UNPAVING THE WAY

The bow of the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Bramble is seen in the foreground after it broke the ice on western Lake Erie for the freighter Henmipin, giving it a clear path into the port at Toledo, Ohio. The cutter will be busy most of the winter breaking the heavy lake ice so freighters can continue their shipping schedules late into the winter.

Novato Woman Repels Attack

A 26-year-old Novato woman successfully fought off a knife-wielding man who grabbed her last night when she went outside her apartment to empty trash, police said today.

The woman told police that the man grabbed her from behind, pressed a knife to her neck and threatened to rape her.

The woman, however, screamed, struggled and freed herself. She said the would-be attacker fled on foot.

She said she never faced the man and was only able to describe him as an adult Negro.

Bel Marin Keys Group Picks Leader

Kenneth G. Majors was elected chairman of the Bel Marin Keys Community Service District board last night.

He has been on the board for the past two years.

Work on Montego Park has been delayed because of bad weather, according to Kay Dow, secretary. The $22,489 project is approximately half completed, she said.

The board is considering forming a special assessment district to underground the power and telephone lines on Montego Key. This would spread the cost, as yet not estimated, over a long period, she said.

Hiring Study Of Banks Nearly Done

The staff of the Marin County Human Rights Commission will soon complete the first stage of a study into the employment practices of local banks and lending institutions.

Douglas H. Bosco, director of the human relations department, told commissioners last night he expects to have the first part completed by February.

The study is to determine if banks and savings and loan companies are living up to equal employment requirements for women and minority race members.

Bosco said the first stage is to find out if they have "affirmative action programs." The next stage will determine if they have initiated the programs, which call for equal hiring, salary and promotion policies.

If a firm that handles county business hasn't, he said, he will recommend it be denied future county business.

Marijuana Is Called Most Dangerous Drug

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Marijuana is "the most dangerous of all drugs" because the user is least aware of its effect, a University of California professor told a Senate Select Committee on Marijuana yesterday.

Dr. Hardin Jones, professor of physiology and medical physics at U.C. Berkeley, said users are amazed at the mental abilities they recovered when abstaining from marijuana use for extended periods.

"First the memory returns, then things become more clear," Jones said. "They begin to feel good again.

"The marijuana user doesn't know what has happened to him. But when the brain recovers these lost departments you can see that it has enlarged its functions."

Jones told committee members he had studied 400 marijuana smokers who had voluntarily quit using the illegal weed for several months to see if it had affected their mind.

The professor said even volunteers who had used marijuana on a limited basis noticed they had clearer memories and thought processes.

"In every case the individuals realized that there was a tremendous change in their brain function compared to what they had been used to," he said.

Jones said studies had proven that marijuana and hashish use resulted in broken chromosomes, and he speculated that the increase in marijuana use had resulted in an increase in highway fatalities.

But another witness, Dr. Tod Mikuriya, disagreed.

Mikuriya, a Berkeley psychiatrist and former head of marijuana research for the National Institute for Mental Health, said marijuana smokers participating in a study commissioned by the federal government actually had fewer chromosomes breaks that a control group of non-users.

Equating highway deaths with marijuana use was "another ridiculous idea," he said.

Tiburon Project A Flood Threat?

The massive Sequoia Pacific development proposed for downtown Tiburon will need extensive filling on its site and this would leave Tiburon Boulevard several feet lower than the new buildings and susceptible to flooding, the developer's architect said at a planning commission meeting last night.

Architect Philip K. Buskirk of Tiburon described the possible drainage problems which the development could create during the session, one of a series being held on the Sequoia Pacific plan. Buskirk said the boulevard will need pumps and a new drainage system to handle water during high tides, according to E. Bruce Ross, Tiburon planning commissioner.

Buskirk said the developer will expand the Tiburon harbor area and pile the fill obtained from the harbor on his building site.

Sequoia Pacific, a Santa Ana firm, is planning an office complex, inn-conference center, marina, waterfront shops and parking garages on 36 acres owned by Southern Pacific Railroad.

Ross noted that Tiburon Boulevard already is subject to flooding and probably needs a new drainage system anyway. He said there will be more information on possible flooding problems in the environmental impact report now being prepared on the project.

The city council also has discussed starting a redevelopment project to finance a new drainage system for downtown.

Also last night, Ross said the audience, numbering about 50, argued for and against the building of the marina by Sequoia Pacific. Several representatives of the Corinthian Island Yacht Club said they would welcome having new berths for their club and would be interested in helping run the yachting facility.

Ross Is Pleased With Suit Over Creek Project

A flood control project in the lower Ross Valley can go ahead as soon as an appeal of a court suit is completed, the Ross Town Council declared last night.

Councilmen reviewed a ruling yesterday by Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson which ordered the town to cooperate in the construction of a concrete ditch along Corte Madera Creek. Councilmen were "absolutely delighted with the decision," according to Town Clerk Virginia Stott.

She said the council acknowledged that funds for the town's contribution of $6,250 are available and the project can begin as soon as a suit by Peter B. Valentine is completed.

Valentine won an order forcing the town to put the project to a vote or withdraw its approval. The council took the later course in 1972 but maintained the county had to pay the entire cost to keep a promise made in 1967 when Ross joined the Ross Valley Flood Control District.

The town appealed the Valentine ruling and that appeal is still pending.

The Ross Town Council also:

TREES — Adopted an ordinance permitting the superintendent of public works, rather than the town council, to approve requests to trim or remove trees on private property.

FIRE — Approved a petition to county supervisors to exclude town residents from having to pay taxes for county fire protection services.

CLOSED — Met in closed session to discuss pending litigation, but took no action.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Feb. 14 at 8 p.m. in town hall.

Boat With Dead Engine Rescued

A fishing boat adrift with a dead engine was rescued off Point Reyes yesterday, the Coast Guard reported.

The St. Patrick, a drag boat with four persons aboard, was towed to San Francisco by the cutter Point Chico. The Coast Guard said the boat was from San Francisco but could not identify the men aboard.

Parks Board Size Boost Is Proposed

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission last night urged the city council to expand the commission from five to seven members.

Parks and Recreation Director Andrew J. Snyder Jr. said commissioners believe more representatives are needed to better reflect community opinion.

Snyder noted the city has grown in recent years and since "there is a great deal going on, we need more members."

He said the city administration is currently studying the duties and functions of the commission and that City Councilman Jack G. Nixon appeared last night to urge the commission to take a greater interest in long range planning.

Nixon said the group should attempt to develop a "five year plan" for recreational growth, he said.

The group next meets at 8 p.m. Feb. 14.

BOMB DAMAGE — Firemen inspected the damage to offices of an Italian insurance firm on the Via Veneto in Rome this morning after a bomb exploded in the building. There were no reports of injuries. Almost simultaneously, bombs exploded in three other parts of Rome, causing extensive damage but no injuries. (UPI Telephoto)

IT&T Is Target Of Rome Bombers

ROME (UPI) — Four bombs went off at business premises in various parts of Rome early today, causing heavy damage but no injuries. Typewritten messages found near the sites accused America's International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) of being behind a "reactionary and fascist plot" in Italy.

Police said the heaviest damage came at the offices of CECA, an Italian computer company which disclaimed any link with ITT. Company officials, who left the building minutes before the blast, estimated damage at more than $1 million.

The building, three blocks from the Via Veneto, is around the corner from the office of the American Broadcasting Company (ABC).

Other explosions occurred miles away at the headquarters of the Intercontinentale di Assicurazioni, an ITT-controlled insurance company, and in a warehouse and truck owned by different telephone equipment companies. Business sources said one of these recently supplied telephonic equipment to Rome police.

Typed messages found on the scenes of the explosions said: "ITT is the spearhead of reaction and the hand of American intelligence services in Italy. It is the company that organized the coup in Chile and is preparing, by means of wiretaps, a reactionary and fascist plot here."

Last September someone poured an inflammable liquid under the door of the ITT office in Rome and set it on fire, causing minor damage.

In a separate incident today, a bomb went off outside a Turin building housing the Spanish consulate and a Spanish chamber of commerce. It damaged the building's door and several parked cars but not the Spanish offices.

Rick Borello was elected vice president; Margaret Leali, secretary; Tina Soldati, treasurer; Kenney Kehoe, reporter; Joseph Dentoni, Sentinel, and Theresa Mazzucchi, student representative.

Attorney Indicted On Tax Charges

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Attorney Benjamin M. Reinhardt, a member of President Nixon's now disbanded Committee on Legal Matters Affecting the Aged, was indicted yesterday on three counts of income tax evasion.

Reinhardt, 56, Northridge, Calif., was charged by a federal grand jury with evading payment of $88,500 in taxes between 1967 and 1969.

Skunk That Fought Dog Was Rabid

A skunk which battled a dachshund in the backyard of an Upper Lucas Valley home was rabid, county health officials said.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, public health officer, said the skunk fought the dog Jan. 4, but escaped through a fence at 11 Mount Tioga Court.

A trap was set and the skunk, wounded from its fight with the dog, was captured the next day.

A test of the animal's brain proved positive for rabies, she said, adding the dachshund was vaccinated against rabies and will be quarantined for 30 days. There was no known human exposure to the skunk.

It was the first rabid animal reported in Marin this year, though 43 animals were reported with the killer disease during 1973.

Last year's count included 32 skunks, six bats, two horses, a fox, cow and sheep.

Terra Linda Group Seeks Traffic Study

The Terra Linda Homeowners association will appeal to San Rafael city officials for a thorough traffic study before more building is approved for the Terra Linda-Northgate area.

"At the present time, congestion is quite significant," said associate secretary Mary Conte. "We want a traffic study before aspects of the general plan calling for intense development are implemented."

ELECTED — Sesto F. Lucchi, a member of Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Board since 1966, was elected board president last night. Lucchi, 52, was frontrunner among three candidates elected to the board in November.

Five Are Named Consumer Advisers

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — The White House yesterday announced the appointment of five persons to two-year terms on the Consumer Advisory Council.

They are Adolfo G. Alayan, director of a New York consumer action group; Linda Lee Graham, a Wichita, Kan., State University economics instructor; Camille A. Haney of Madison, Wis., the Justice Department's consumer affairs coordinator for Wisconsin; Edna Decoursey Johnson, director of the consumer services program of the Baltimore Urban League; and Robert Lee Wright Jr., an optometrist from Columbus, Ga.

Decision On Revoking Use Permit Delayed

The Rohnert Park Planning Commission last night postponed a decision on revoking the use permit of the Cotati Performance Center, an automotive supply business at 5870 Commerce Boulevard.

Secretary Sandra Faus said the public hearing on the revocation was continued until March 14. Owners of the building have agreed to install a "low profile" sign and landscape their lot by that date, she said.

The use permit has been under review nearly two months because the building's sign and landscaping did not conform to permit regulations.

The planning commission also approved environmental impact proposals for two proposed warehouses, one at 5700 Commerce Boulevard and another at the southwest corner of Executive and Transport avenues.

Member Michael Mullins was appointed chairman of the commission for the next year and Sil C. Cincera was named vice chairman, the secretary said.

Police said 80 per cent of the houses in the small Anglesea village of Malltraeth were damaged and numerous rural roads were blocked by fallen trees.

No casualties were reported.

WATER TRAVEL — Despite a partial truce by rail engineers, there is still a shortage of trains in and around London. Some commuters have found the easiest way to the office is the River Thames hovercraft service. The craft passes the Tower Bridge in its 15-minute, five-mile run.

Rail Engineers End One-Day Crippling Walkout In England

LONDON (UPI) — Railroad engineers today ended a crippling one-day mass walkout and resumed near normal services for at least four days in a truce in their month-old slowdown.

Prime Minister Edward Heath and his government also studied a labor union peace proposal that might open the way to end a two months old slowdown by 260,000 coal miners.

British newspapers with headlines like the Daily Express "here's hoping" said the two moves offered the first rays of hope in Britain's worst industrial crisis since World War II.

But peace prospects still were shaky.

In London 250 wildcat locomotive drivers defied union orders and again refused to take out trains. Their defiance once again hit London's commuters —chief victims of the slowdown.

However, most commuter services were back to normal.

"I think this was an excellent gesture by the railmen," said civil servant Peter Aitken.

"I think it is a good move towards a settlement," said businessman David Andrews.

But some commuters were bitter at yesterday's complete shutdown.

"It is about time a stronger stand was taken against them," commented Dennis Trevelyan, an advertising artist.

The rail engineers union ordered the four-day truce last night, dependent on the management of the state-run British Railways Board agreeing by Tuesday to resume pay talks.

If it did not do so, the union said, there would be a one-day total rail shutdown Tuesday, to be followed by further unspecified tough action later.

'No Comment' To Be Dropped

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — FBI director Clarence Kelley says he hopes to eliminate the words "no comment" from the bureau's vocabulary in order to open a healthier relationship with the news media.

"There are, of course, times when we cannot comment but we hope to tell you why," Kelley told a news conference Wednesday.

He said a credibility gap has existed between the public and the FBI due to "a backwash" from Watergate and other government scandals but that it has been "closed a bit" since he became director last July.

A Bandit Gives Customer Service

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Memphis policemen R. L. Hannah and C.J. Harrell stopped at a store yesterday and purchased a 16 cent bag of popcorn.

They left without knowing they had been served by a bandit who was in the process of robbing the store when they entered.

Jobless Filing Climbs In U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has made public statistics showing some 64,000 persons filing for unemployment compensation in the last week of 1973 claim they lost their job because of the energy situation.

The Labor Department, in announcing the new figure on yesterday, said it was 18,000 more than in the previous week. It said the figure included 30,900 making their initial claim for unemployeent and 33,100 already drawing compensation.

It said the total number of new claims for the week was 460,400 while 1,858,300 people were already on the unemployment compensation rolls.

Dust Blots Out Sun In Caribbean

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Caribbean is experiencing a reduction of sunlight because of dust whipped up by hot desert winds blowing across the parched grasslands of Africa which is crossing the Atlantic in increasing amounts, according to government scientists.

The atmospheric dust layer seems to be suppressing the growth of cumulus clouds over the tropical Atlantic and may even affect the growth of tropical disturbances into hurricanes, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) said yesterday.

Concentrations of red brown dust in the summer and lesser amounts of black dust in the winter in the skies over Barbados in the West Indies have tripled since the beginning of the great African drought in 1968.

As a result, Dr. Toby N. Carlson of NOAA's research laboratory in Miami said the transparency of the air over the West Indies has been transformed at times into the hazy conditions normally found over industrialized areas of North America.

"The difference is that the 'pollution' consists of natural soil particles and is concentrated much more at 10,000 feet than at the surface," he said.

Railways Board officials are studying the proposal, a spokesman said.

At the same time, government officials said Heath and other government ministers were studying the coal mines peace plan offered yesterday by labor union leaders.

Dangerous Void In Public Cable Television

Here is a dream for any organization that wants to promote some ideology, philosophy, or political party: Wouldn't it be great to have sole access to a television channel piped into 30,000 or more Marin County homes by cable?

This dream may take on nightmare reality if something is not done soon about a void created by the Federal Communications Commission's dictum that every cable TV franchisee must provide one channel for local public telecasting wherever more than 3,500 subscribers are served. The FCC has set 1977 as deadline for providing this service.

THE FCC'S ORDER is intended to insure against monopoly of cable TV channels by the big commercial networks. But it could create a different and more dangerous sort of monopoly in each locality.

This is so because, in ordering that public service TV channels be made available, FCC did not specify how they will be controlled, or by whom.

The cable franchisee has no control over programming by the networks and commercial stations. But in ordering that each such franchise provide a free public channel, FCC has left the way open for the franchisee to control its programming, or to choose who will do so — unless the franchisor (city or county) steps in to take over.

THIS MEANS that a group seeking to promote its own ideological or political aims could control the programming. It could have a monopoly unmatched by the greatest concentration of media control to be found anywhere in the United States — one comparable to that exercised by the government in totalitarian countries.

So far in Marin County, nobody has made any move toward providing control over the public service cable TV channels which must be made available here within three years.

One organization, Marin Community Video Association, has moved into the field, seeking to provide programming. As things stand, it appears likely to wind up with control.

Marin Community Video Association is a private organization. It represents a portion of the public — just as the Republican party or the Marin County Labor Council or the Marin County Chamber of Commerce represents a portion of the public. But none of these should be granted exclusive control of a television channel.

THE FCC regulation calls for one channel for each cable system serving 3,500 or more subscribers. That would mean one for San Rafael, one for Novato, one for Marin's unincorporated areas, and at least one more in the county.

As a practical matter, it would be much better to have the same channel for all. And its public service programming should come under true public control.

We suggest that the Marin County Board of Supervisors and city councils of the various cities address themselves to this need, without delay.

Perhaps the simplest way would be for cities and county to set up a public commission, each city and the county naming one member, charged with seeing to it that public service television programming will truly be available to all segments of the public.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND: Impeach For What?

WASHINGTON — A private head count of the House Judiciary Committee indicates that a majority vote is available to begin impeachment proceedings against President Nixon.

This means that the committee and the members of the House themselves must soon decide whether there are impeachable grounds to remove the president.

There are two ways to do it:

1 — Read the Constitution and then consider whether Richard Nixon has committed "treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors" definable as such under the law.

2 — Interpret the Constitution freely, as Rep. Gerald Ford did a few years ago in his abortive attempt to get Justice William Douglass off the Supreme Court, and proceed on the premise that impeachable crimes are anything which Congress decides are impeachable crimes.

THE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE, which must decide whether to ask the House to vote for an impeachment trial faces difficulty whichever way it turns.

If the legal staff and the Judicary Committee itself seek to rest its indictment on the explicit constitutional requirements for impeachment, it will have to demonstrate that the president has committed one or more of the crimes cited in the Constitution.

Unless new and significant evidence is forthcoming, it will be difficult to show that Mr. Nixon procured the Watergate offenses or participated in the coverup. On the other hand, the Judiciary Committee could decide to urge impeachment on generalized grounds — on grounds that Mr. Nixon has brought the presidency into disrepute, that he has gravely damaged the nation through the actions of men he appointed and should be removed so that the presidency can begin to function normally.

But if the committee choses this course, it will discover a large, perhaps a decisive, weakness in its case. Since these are not crimes under the specific meaning of the Constitution, such an indictment would have to argue that on balance the president has done more harm than good.

If President Nixon is indicted for crimes specified as impeachable in the Constitution, then the Senate trial need only center on whether the president has committed any of those crimes.

But if the indictment is a generalized one, then the verdict of the trial will necessarily and rightly rest on whether the sum total of the president's accomplishments has done significantly more to harm the country than to benefit it.

I DO NOT MINIMIZE the gravity and magnitude of the Watergate crimes. They are noxious and intolerable, but the evidence thus far is that they were committed by those who misused and abused presidential power.

The offenses committed by those who acted in the president's name would have to be weighed in the balance of fact that the Nixon administration:

1 — Ended U.S. combat in the Vietnamese war and brought the POWs home.
2 — Terminated the draft.
3 — Began the reduction of U.S. forces around the world.
4 — Achieved the first step to control the Soviet-U.S. nuclear arms race.
5 — Opened a new era of relations with the People's Republic of China.
6 — Reduced the cold war with the Soviet Union and brought the beginnings of detente.
7 — Helped end the 1973 Arab-Israeli war and for the first time brought the combatants into direct negotiation.

A recent Harris Survey shows that by a record 69 per cent the American people now see "a generation of peace" within reach. It will be hard to persuade them that the President of the United States did not have a lot to do with it.

Scenario For Rescuing America From Energy Crisis Lacks Credibility

WASHINGTON — Stand by for a dramatic rescue. The hero, according to the White House scenario, is going to be none other than Richard M. Nixon, starring in yet another comeback role. But even as the plot thickens, the reviewers and the audience already are in a cynical mood, because of the transparent contradictions built into the storyline.

Henry Kissinger, the co-star, already has tipped off the climax: the president, through valiant individual effort, is going to pacify the mustachioed villains of the energy crisis. Even now he is sending personal messages to the Arab chieftains and leaders of other major oil-producing and consuming nations.

At the same time, Kissinger himself is staying up all night trying to midwife a territorial agreement between Israel and her Arab antagonists, which if it suits the Arabs sufficiently should loosen up their oil embargo.

Meanwhile, we can reasonably conjecture, the White House also is directing the supporting staff, William Simon, the energy czar, is to sow maximum confusion about how much gasoline prices are going up, and when — so that however much it is, it will be less than everybody feared. The Weather Bureau is to order up mild weather for the remainder of the winter, or else.

AND, OF COURSE, the president is nobly setting an example for all patriotic Americans by flying commercial to the West Coast for his latest vacation (although his vice president, who apparently is not in on the scenario, burnt more than 20,000 gallons of fuel by taking an Air Force C-135 back and forth to Colorado to ski during the holidays).

Along about the vernal equinox, if not sooner, all this sacrifice and virtue is going to come together and the president is going to preempt "Wild Kingdom" or some other show to tell us he has whipped the energy crisis and we and he can all live happily, if frugally, ever after.

The trouble is, it is going to be very hard to believe him.

Not merely on general grounds, relating to all the other things he has told us about sundry crimes committed here in the name of politics. On specific grounds instead, as follows:

1 — EVERYTHING ANYBODY in this administration says about oil obviously has to be swallowed with salt pills, for the simple reason that officials and stockholders in 178 different oil companies donated some $5.7 million to the Nixon re-election campaign.

2 — At the rate gasoline, diesel fuel and home-heating oil prices are shooting up now, by the time the president congratulates himself on his victory, the oil industry already will have what it wanted — a vast boost in profits. And unless a total change takes place in the government's data-gathering effort on the oil situation, the public still will not have seen any certified figures to prove that the crisis was as real as advertised. It still will have only the word of the oil companies themselves, and the oil companies' political debtors.

3 — even if the public, with astonishing clarity, should be willing to overlook those details, it still will have to match directly clashing statements on the issue from Mr. Nixon and his man in charge of energy. The president, by the scenario, will say that by hard work and courage he has dispelled the dragon of crisis and we should be thankful to him. But Simon, only last week end, said to questioners:

"There is a real crisis, and it has been brought home to the American people by the embargo and, as I have said quite often, my most difficult task will be, once the embargo is over, to keep the American people awake to the fact that we are going to continue to have shortages, and subject ourselves to the economic and political blackmail of any foreign nation, both on the supply side and the price side."

THE SCENARIO, as is clear, runs into problems. If the embargo is over but there still is an oil shortage, somebody must then be to blame besides the bad Arabs. And who might that be? The scenarists would rather not hear the answer.

Yet, despite the dilemna, you can trust them to keep working on an early, happy ending. For by irresistible coincidence, the opportunity to proclaim the crisis surmounted happens to fall at just the point in time when the House Judiciary Committee approaches its vote on impeachment.

State Employees Clipped Twice For Retirement

By RUS WALTON

Middle income wage-earners will really take it on the chin with the latest increase in Social Security taxes. The guy who earns about $15,000 a year was paying $52.65 a month; he'll soon be paying $64.38. Both he and his employer will be putting out $772.50 a year for the program.

Somebody back there in Caesar's palace on the Potomac just doesn't like the middle class.

BUT IF THE AVERAGE private sector employe gets hit, the middle-income state employe gets whacked twice.

Most of those civil servants are already paying 7 per cent of their salary to the Public Employe Retirement System, as well as 5.85 per cent of the first $10,800 social security base. With the recent jump in social security demands, some 12-13 per cent of their gross earnings will go to forced savings. That is kind of heavy. And when you add other taxes — and struggle with the tax of inflation — it gets out of sight.

Back in 1961, when a majority of the state employes elected to climb on the Social Security railroad, the annual tab was $180. Since then it has doubled and tripled; soon it will quadruple.

In 1973, 100,217 state employes shelled out $51.1 million for social security. Taxpayers matched that with $51.1 million from the general fund. This year, both employes and taxpayers will shell out even more.

THERE WAS SOME TALK in 1972 about pulling the state out of the Social Security program. That talk has died out. The recent and projected increases (by 1978, $962 a year) may revive the move to pull out.

The Social Security tax is getting out of hand. It's mostly social with darned little security. The entire expense of this latest round of increases in monthly pensions will be borne by upping the tax on those who earn $13,200 or more. And, for the middle-income group, the small businessman and the self-employed, the bite is vicious — and regressive.

It is a bipartisan fraud. The evils of the Democrats have been compounded by the Republicans. Congress no longer makes a pretense that the system is a good buy or a fair shake; it's another compulsory tax to fund an appendage of the welfare program.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS, just starting out, Social Security is the great all-time rip off. And if they are looking for a cause to rally 'round, a drastic overhaul of the system should fill their bill. Look at it this way:

Suppose some young fella starts out this year, earning $13,000. Each month he and his employer put $64.38 each into "his" social security. By the time he retires, 44 years from now, the combined contribution will total $67,985. (For sake of illustration we'll let both the tax and the benefits ride as is, even though they will increase through the years.)

If he and his wife live to age 80, they can expect total benefits of $124,000. That may sound good but actually it's a bad deal.

Suppose his combined contribution of $128 a month were put into a savings account at 4 per cent interest, compounded. Suppose he let it ride for the entire 44 years. At age 65 he would have more than $150,000 in the bank.

That's his $150,000-plus. No bureaucrat doling it out, no politician raiding the fund to buy a vote or pork a barrel.

And when he passed on, he could leave the capital amount to his widow or heirs — minus taxes, of course.

BUT, SUCH A voluntary system would never fly. Politicians must compel the middle-class to feed the Social Security kitty — to make it work, and to keep it from blowing apart.

State employes, at least, have an out. The Legislature could free them from Social Security and let them concentrate on a sounder, more rewarding public employes retirement system. That would save us taxpayers a wad, too.

CAPITOL QUIPS

By PHIL DESSAUER

Going to work before daylight is no picnic. A person needs to carry a flashlight just to keep from getting into the wrong car pool.

What's the full story on Daylight Saving Time, anyway? Is this another case of the public being kept in the dark?

Friends of the President have regrouped for a comeback. They're already saying in Alabama that Watergate wasn't nearly so big a disaster as the Sugar Bowl game.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Another Marin Woman Who 'Made Her Mark'

How could Barbara Hosmer omit Jana Haehl from her list of "Marin Women (who) Made Their Mark... in 1973?" Although such articles are often prepared in advance, a paragraph could easily have been inserted for the woman who led all 10 candidates for Corte Madera Town Council in the special election on Dec. 18. Admittedly, that is not a woman's place; such achievement underscores the misnomer, "Marin Women," for what is really the society section of the I-J.

I make the following recommendations for the I-J for 1974:

1. Rename "Marin Women" the "Social Section";
2. Print newsworthy articles, regardless of sex, in the news section;
3. Print social news, regardless of sex, in the "Social Section";
4. Refer to all parties by their own given names, e.g., Mary, Joseph, or Richard, not those of their respective spouses — Joseph, Mary, or Pat.

More Thorough Inspection Of Prisons Needed

We have a sore festering in our midst that is infecting us and can become malignant. Why is the California Department of Corrections afraid of having the light of public inspection shine on their "adjustment centers" and especially the management (strip) cells? From inmate accounts, the brutality, filth and human derpivation in these holes is unbelievable to any of us fortunate enough to be able to live a comfortable life. Is this how our money is going to make adjusted and productive people out of those who find themselves in this predicament, or is it creating thousands of hostile and belligerent people? When any system is run in total secrecy with total power over others, we all know too well what the result will be.

If we want to remain a free society, we should insist that at the very least our judges, legislators and reporters be allowed to inspect these facilities to ascertain exactly the conditions in these "rehabilitative" centers...

Prisons, too, are one of the gauges of our standard of living, so why are we not allowed to know what is happening inside? Everything may be being run legally and in the best interest of all of us. If so, the department will come out with a brighter image and all of our doubts could be put to rest, so I see no reason for them to fear inspection...

If such brutality and uncivilized behavior do exist behind those walls today, what are we going to tell ourselves when we can no longer claim ignorance — we did not see, we did not know, we were not aware? Can our consciences stand that?

Finds Contradictions In 'Energy Crisis'

The energy crisis puzzles me! In the same location both here in Marin County and San Francisco, gas stations two blocks apart offer premium gasoline at 47.9 cents per gallon plus seven times Blue Chip stamps — and 53.9 cents per gallon (no stamps)! PG&E asks us for energy savings — yet the newspapers are full of advertisements for ocean cruises! My wife recently asked me if she would really have to give up her electric blanket; my answer: "Yes — as soon as they stop having ocean cruises"! Are others as perplexed as I?

'Nutcracker' Provides Joys For Participants

"Nutcracker in Marin" has a special magic, because it is a showcase for the community's most talented young dancers and musicians. One of the special joys this year for all, both young and older, who worked many months in the preparation of this production was the consistent and ongoing coverage we received from the Independent-Journal. We wish to extend special thanks to Bob Strebeigh for his interest and to Joan Lisetor for her fine article.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Jan. 11, 1964

Two Air Force interceptor planes collided in midair north of San Francisco Bay, but the crew of one parachuted to safety and the second landed at Hamilton Air Force Base without injury to the two fliers aboard.

The Soviet Union signed a contract to buy one million tons of wheat in the United States.

20 YEARS AGO

Jan. 11, 1954

President Dwight D. Eisenhower asked Congress for 14 amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act, including one forbidding a strike until it had been voted by the workers affected.

Oscar Strauss, famed Viennese composer, died at 83 in Bad Ischl, Austria.

We've Been Spinning Wheels Without Any Governors

Let's add another suggestion for housewives' shopping vehicles during the energy crisis: Buy a 10-speed bike and equip it with a sidecar luggage trunk, plastic windshield, and covering for the rider during unpleasant weather. This would probably be the most economical for those who can ride a bike.

One hears so many wondering how we, the strongest nation, could get ourselves in such a tangle. I wrote awhile back that we had been living pretty high on the hog. This seems to need a better and more expanded answer; at least a basic one.

WHEN I WAS A KID growing up, one of the most fascinating sights was to go to where the big steam plants were running, with huge main wheels around which were wide leather belts running to smaller ones — the same idea as the gearing on a bike. Those big fellows moved so slowly and majestically while the smaller ones would be buzzing along turning generators which in turn were producing electric current. And in the mills and manufacturing plants those belts were geared to all types of machines.

In the hookup of the steam engines to the big main wheels there were two heavy iron balls, hung opposite each other on metal rods, which in turn were slung over heavy iron poles that they revolved around in a constant whirl. I never understood then what the engineers meant when they told us that if those "governors" were not there the huge main wheels would pick up so much speed that they would shatter themselves and fall to pieces.

Now, it seems to me, that as a free enterprise country, we have plunged ahead without the proper governors of some palatable sort and have had periodical boom and bust situations.

As the busting time approached and was sensed, the extremists got to work with their unbalanced demands and made matters worse.

THIS SEEMS TO BE the basic reason that the energy shortage slithered in and caught us flatfooted.

I have lived through four or five depressions and several recessions. If we don't let the extremists rock the boat, with their everlasting demands, we can come through okay. It will, however, take some sane, cool controls for a spell. For a change, suppose we all help to give it the old American try! How about it?

Energy Crunch Produces Jargon Fit For Engineers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Since the arrival of the energy crisis, a new collection of esoteric words and terms has crept into America's working vocabulary.

Once the special jargon of hardhat drillers and oil company executives, phrases like "shortfall" and "middle distillates" now pop up in coffee break and cocktail party conversations. Some definitions help:

American Petroleum Institute, API — An industry trade organization and Washington lobbyist. It publishes a weekly statistical bulletin on oil and natural gas production and supplies. The federal government depends on the API bulletin for its information about the oil industry. Says Duke R. Ligon, director of Interior Department's Office of Oil and Gas: "Of course we use API figures."

Barrel — A mythical container holding 42 gallons of oil. Actually, the API says the industry does not and never has used a 42-gallon barrel for anything. It does sometimes use 55-gallon barrels, but most oil travels in tankers, tank trunks and ships. Despite the 42-gallon barrel's nonexistence, the West Virginia legislature passed a law in 1886: "A barrel holds 40 liquid gallons plus two gallons in the buyer's favor." Somehow, it became the standard measure of petroleum and petroleum products.

Breeder Reactor, Fast-Breeder — Atomic reactor that creates more fuel than it consumes. Once developed, it will be commercially valuable. But the United States has been slow on research. The Atomic Energy Commission now says the U.S. will spend $3 billion on a crash program. Traditional nuclear fision now produces 3 per cent of U.S. electricity and will be the source of an estimated 35 per cent by 1985.

Coal Gasification — Process of extracting oil and natural gas from coal. It could turn environmentally offensive high-sulfur coal into an acceptable power source. But it's a very expensive process. It probably will be 1985 before it has significant impact on the energy situation.

Crude Oil — Comes out of the ground. A barrel of it processed in an average U.S. refinery becomes 46 per cent gasoline, 22 per cent distillate fuels, 7½ per cent jet fuel, and 6½ per cent residual fuels. The rest is transformed into petrochemicals, lubricants, kerosene, asphalt and the like.

Distillate Fuels, Middle Distillates — Home heating oil and diesel fuel. Its price has risen 25 per cent and more so far this year. Residual Fuels — Heavy oil to run industrial machinery, electricity generators.

Oil Embargo — Started Oct. 17. The Arab states announced a cut off of all oil shipments to United States. The same day American officials confirmed a daily airlift of 800 tons of military supplies to Israel. The U.S. government says some Arab oil is reaching the United States despite the embargo.

Energy Crisis — The crisis was slow in developing with roots in the 1960s. There were some heating oil shortages last winter, some gas stations closed last summer. The Arab embargo transformed the petroleum shortage into an energy crisis.

Project Independence — President Nixon says Project Independence is to make the country self-sufficient in energy by 1980. Energy experts doubt it.

Gasless Sunday — A day of rest for the nation's 220,000 gasoline stations. Also for the nation's motorists. To conserve gasoline, President Nixon asked service stations not to sell gasoline on Sundays and drivers to reduce travel.

OPEC, also O.P.E.C. — Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. There are a dozen such nations, the majority Arab. They have most of the world's oil and they formed OPEC to set taxes, royalties, production quotas and other sales rules. The United States normally imports 35 per cent of its petroleum from OPEC members.

Oil Depletion Allowance — A tax deduction created by Congress for the oil industry in 1926. Critics call it a tax loophole. The depletion allowance permits oil companies to deduct from their income a portion of revenues derived from petroleum production. The allowance was reduced from 27.5 per cent to 22 per cent in 1969. Oil companies say the reduction increased their taxes $500 million a year. That money, they say, could have drilled 5,000 exploratory wells.

Oil Shale — Sandstone and other rock formations under several Rocky Mountain states, permeated by an estimated 600 billion barrels of oil. Heating the rock releases the oil, but the process has been too expensive in the past. Higher petroleum prices now make oil shale economically attractive. But at least seven years are needed before large scale production can begin.

Petrochemicals — Chemicals produced in the refining of petroleum. What's left when gasoline, fuel oils and other products are drawn from crude oil. Used in everything from plastics to pharmaceuticals, from panty hose to paving materials. There's a shortage.

Petropolitics, Oil Weapon — shut off or reduction of flow of Arab oil to energy-dependent countries not supporting their position regarding Israel, particularly Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands.

Posted Price — An artificial price, generally 40 per cent above the market price, used by Arabs and other oil exporting countries to compute royalties and taxes on their oil. Arabs have raised the posted price from $3.01 to $11.65 a barrel since the Mideast fighting in October. The move has allowed Arab governments to cut production while greatly increasing their revenues. It also has driven up gasoline and heating oil prices.

Proven Reserves — Quantity of known oil, coal and natural gas that energy companies say they can take from the ground and process with a profit at today's prices with today's technology.

Shortfall — The amount of oil we won't have this winter because of the Arab embargo. The shortfall originally was estimated at 6 per cent when the embargo was announced. It rose to 17 per cent when government and the oil industry added things up. It seems to be shrinking again because the government says the embargo is leaking.

Stripper Well — Low yielding oil well, less than 10 barrels a day. A stripper well pumps oil to the surface. In more active wells, pressure forces oil to surface. Production from stripper wells is not subject to price controls.

U.S. Consumption — Six per cent of the world's population consumes 35 per cent of the world's energy. "A national of energy wastrels," says federal energy chief William E. Simon.

VLCC — Very Large Crude Carrier or supertankers — ships weighing more than 200,000 tons when loaded. Movement of VLCCs supposedly was slowed down by the Arab embargo. However, there is no big decrease in the number arriving at U.S. ports, apparently because some Arab oil is getting through to the United States, despite the embargo.

Vertically Integrated — The major oil companies. They control every step of oil production — from exploration through refining to marketing. The Federal Trade Commission has filed an antitrust suit against the eight largest U.S. oil companies. In the first nine months of 1973, the five largest oil companies made $4.1 billion, a 48 per cent profit increase over the previous year.

Scott Reveals What He Holds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., Wednesday filed an updated financial statement disclosing his investments, but he withheld their value.

A spokesman said Scott identified the securities, which he holds jointly with his wife, to show he had no conflict of interest, and "until the law requires any additional disclosure, he will continue to make public the securities only and identify them."

The Pennsylvania senator said his only real estate holdings were homes in Washington and Philadelphia. He listed stock in the National Bank of Fredericksburg, Va., largely inherited from his father, and other holdings in Prentice Hall Inc., First Mortgage Investors, Median Mortgage investors, Federal National Mortgage Association, Presidential Realty, Binney Smith, Integrated Resources Inc., Rapid American, Pandick Press, U.S. savings bonds and state of Israel securities.

Veteran GOP Senator Seeks Teague's Post

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Veteran Republican state Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino says he will seek the Santa Barbara-Ventura county congressional seat left vacant by the death of Rep. Charles M. Teague.

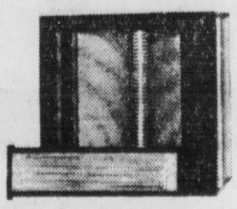

The special election date to fill the 13th Congressional District vacancy has been set for March 5 with a runoff date of April 2, if needed.

Teague, 64, a Republican, died Jan. 1 after serving in the House of Representatives for 20 years.

The World Survives

Comet Kohoutek is headed back into deep space, and the world has not come to an end, as some had predicted. Among the doomsayers was Edward Ben Elson, a Wisconsin attorney who claimed that Kohoutek would drown the world in "a sea of petroleum oil" on Christmas Day. It was also to serve as a spaceship for 1,000 survivors, to be selected by Elson, who sold tickets for $10 apiece. The select few were to be accompanied by 143,000 miniaturized human beings Elson claimed to have in a state of suspended animation in his basement. Astronomers offered a more modest prediction — they said Kohoutek should reach maximum visibility in the first weeks of January.

DO YOU KNOW — Where and when can Comet Kohoutek now be seen?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — A "Btu" is a British thermal unit.

Nazi Captive Tells World About Concentration Camps

By JOAN LISETOR

Many of the survivors of Nazi prison camps are now experiencing a second tragedy in their lives, that of losing their children in a war. They are the refugees who settled in Israel after World War II.

Gerta Weissman Klein knows many of them. She was in a concentration camp for three years. Now a resident of Buffalo, N.Y., she has made frequent visits to Israel and on the latest visit had a reunion with the 14 women in Israel who, with her, were survivors of a death march of 4,000.

In the Bay Area this week to address meetings of the Jewish Welfare Federation, Mrs. Klein spent Tuesday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Morton G. Rivo in San Rafael.

GERTA KLEIN
Survived Nazi camp

Mrs. Klein was born in Bielso, Poland, where she lived with her parents and brother in 1939 when the German armies occupied Poland. For three years she lived with her family in a Jewish ghetto. The day the SS men came to take her was the last she ever saw or heard of her family.

"ALL OF the cliches you have heard about concentration camps are true, but not enough space has ever been given to the stories of survival, sustaining and sharing," Mrs. Klein said.

There was love and hope and even a little laughter among the 2,000 women between the ages of 17 and 25 with whom she was imprisoned. So much hope, she said, that there was never a suicide.

Mrs. Klein's experiences are recounted in her autobiography, "All But My Life."

"The book has no gory details or description of the brutality. I wouldn't inflict that on my readers. The statistics speak for themselves," she said. "But don't think it was a lark or had any resemblance to a summer camp."

The book is still in print after 17 years. It has been placed in the British War Museum as a footnote to European history and is used in high schools.

She wrote the book for her three children and never dreamed it would be published. Few books have been written by concentration camp survivors, she said. Most survivors want to forget, but she found that writing about the experience was a form of therapy.

SHE ALSO finds it important to talk to as many persons as she can about the experiences. Mrs. Klein is with the National Speakers Bureau and often speaks to non-Jewish groups.

"It is important for people to identify with one, not with the six million," she said. "Many people have never met someone who was in a concentration camp who is willing or able to talk about it. I try to promote broader understanding in order to safeguard freedom, so it doesn't happen again."

Some of her speaking engagements are to raise funds for Israel.

"I have never gone back to my childhood home, so Israel is like my childhood home. My parents have no graves. The love I have for Israel is like the love for my family," she said.

"When there is war in Israel it opens many wounds for me. It is the first time in my life Jews have been threatened when I am in relative safety. The world talks about the Arab refugees in the Mideast, and it is lamentable that there are Arab refugees, but everyone in Israel is a refugee. The Arab leaders get enormous amounts of money and they are not doing anything for the refugees with it."

Israel seems the aggressor, and no one denies that the Israelis have done some wrong things, she said, but she believes that if the Arabs and Israelis were left alone and not used as political pawns by the Arab leaders, peace would come.

"People in Israel are living free for the first time, and isn't it surprising that even during a war there are still so many people who want in?" she asked rhetorically.

WHY DIDN'T the Jews fight the Nazis?, Mrs. Klein is often asked. First they didn't believe it could happen, she said, and by the time they did it was too late. The Nazis had killed the young men.

She likened the situation to a man with a machine gun running into a room full of women.

"What chance would you have? If you run there are more of them out there. It was not out of cowardice, but humanity that the people didn't fight," she said.

"In one camp a few men attacked a guard. So they lined up all of the men and shot every third one."

In May of 1945 as the Nazi empire was beginning to crumble, she and the 4,000 inmates of the camp in Silesia were driven 1,000 miles eastward toward Czechoslovakia by the Gestapo. Fewer than 200 survived.

The march came to a halt in a small village and was liberated by the 5th U.S. Infantry Division commanded by Lt. Kurt Klein. She and Lieutenant Klein were married the following year in Paris and came to the United States, where they have lived ever since. So "my book has a happy ending," she said.

She has written another book about a retarded child, and her publishers have asked her to write another, looking back at her life since the war.

The Rate Of Runaway Wives Taking A Climb

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — I daresay there isn't a wife who hasn't thought about it. Escape. Run away. When everything just becomes too much, flee.

One expert on tracing missing persons says that the women are doing just that, shucking the traditional family responsibilities and saying "This is my life" for a change.

Women runaways now equal or even top the number of men who desert the nest for one reason or another, says Edward Goldfader.

Behind the new social phenomenon are several factors, the primary one being the liberation movement and the woman saying to herself, "I'm me, an individual ... I'm not exercising that right ... I am no longer bound by convention. I'm tired of frustration, of being shunted aside by spouse and children ... I'm tired of talking to a blank wall. Liberation has given me the heart ..."

"I'M NOT saying this is the way out," said Goldfader, president of Tracers Company of America, New York. "I'm just saying this is the social pattern shaping up."

Goldfader heads the firm established in 1924 and believed, he said, to be the largest tracer of missing persons in the United States. Tracers trace wayward husbands, wives, teenagers, other relatives, heirs to estates, stockholders, alumni (there may be an endowment there), debtors, and so on.

But it is in recent years, Goldfader said in an interview, that he's noticed the time accepted fact (or fiction) that a husband deserts the family, rarely does the wife.

He cites some statistics from his company. In the early 1960s, Goldfader said, the number of husbands who ran away compared with the number of wives, was about 300 to 1. By the late 1960s, the ratio had risen to about 100 to 1. In 1972, it was to 2 to one. But in 1973, it was just about even.

"OUR FIGURES show that for all of 1973, we traced only 14 more missing husbands than wives," he said. "I think that balancing off the missing we traced in the latter half of '73, there were more wives than husbands."

Goldfader drew the composite of the current runaway wife. She's 34-½ years, married at 19, first child within one year of marriage, second child a year and a half later. She's intelligent, caring, anxious to elevate herself above the stereotyped roles of cook, laundress, waitress, housemaid, chauffer.

And if she holds a job outside the home, as so many millions of women increasingly do, she has the added pressure of trying to balance additional duties.

Goldfader explains how the liberation movement has affected all of the family scene.

"Twenty years ago," he said in an interview, "the unhappy woman would have run off home to mother. Now, Mom is out doing her own thing."

Then there's something called the male ego. In talking to husbands, who after exhausting the routine family and police sources of a wife's whereabouts, finally admit that "she can't do this to me."

Said Goldfader, "It is time that family communication be reestablished ... that the spouse and children understand her frustrations ... her need to be somebody."

Mrs. Willmann has an A.B. degree in political science and German from the University of California at Berkeley and received the teaching credential from California State University, Hayward. She taught for one year in Austria.

Much of her spare time is spent looking for a teaching job, she said. She substitute teaches for local high schools and is a volunteer aide in her son's first grade class. She enjoys handcrafts and weaving and skiing with her family.

She is also a member of the Marin Federation of Foreign Language Teachers and the Austro-American Club.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Silence Is Probably Best Even Though Friend's Husband Is A Rat

DEAR HELEN:

A while back I found out my friend's husband, a lawyer, has been having an affair, apparently for several years, with a liberated woman lawyer.

I've told no one, and I'm sure our crowd is unaware of this — am especially sure the wife (my friend) knows nothing about it.

However, it's obvious that she and her husband haven't loved one another for years. She is very unhappy with him, and probably stays for the sake of young children, or something.

I'm sensitive and don't believe in meddling, but in this case, I'm wondering if silence is really golden? Perhaps the knowledge of the affair might push her into a decision that would be better for everyone, including the children. — TO TELL OR NOT TO TELL

DEAR TTONTT:

If your friend is determined to stay with a bad marriage (for "the sake of the children," or security, or social standing, or whatever) then knowledge that her unloved husband is seeking love elsewhere will certainly not change her mind: It will probably neither surprise nor crush her. (However, she might resent you for revealing something she'd rather ignore.)

But... if she wants a divorce and hesitates only because she hasn't adequate grounds for an uncontested settlement — with sizeable alimony and child support — then you're in a position to help. (That is, if you feel no loyalty toward her husband.)

My advice: Find out whether this woman prefers (financially) comfortable ignorance or financially comfortable freedom before you start telling tales. If the latter, ask yourself, "Is her husband such a rat that he deserves this?" — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Ever since I read "Feudal Lady's" letter, I've been meaning to drop you a line. As you say, she must be very lonely, feeling that everyone on the block is out to ruin her property and her peace of mind.

I too have a nice home and am proud of it, having waited a long time before I could afford improvements. I raised five children alone; their Daddy died of cancer in 1940.

I am now 74 and lame, but not soured on life. There are these six kids next door and three a few houses down and a couple more across the street, and a few whose names I don't even know. They skate, ride their bikes and play ball and fight like little demons sometimes, but they are all my friends and call me "ma."

They get my mail, empty my garbage, sweep the walks, cut my grass — yes, they're darlings for all their energy and noise, and they seem like my own.

In the evenings they come in, slip off their shoes at the door, park on a big afghan I keep in front of the TV for them. Sometimes I read them stories, or we pop popcorn. Often a little girl will take the sweeper to the front room, while a boy shakes out the throw-rugs. Sometimes I take a few of them shopping with me and they delight in helping me buy.

My daughters say they'd think I had my fill of scrapping kids (17 grandchildren, five great grands), but I tell them it's the greatest thrill on earth to have the love and trust of a child — to know they'll run to "Ma" if they need a sliver removed or a knee bandaged.

I'll always have time for children, or their mothers — if they want to learn fancy work or are interested in something I know I can give.

Life is a school, and how are children to learn if they are shoved around by people like "Feudal" with "Don't bother me!"? Jesus said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of these children, ye have done it unto me." These "little devils" could be little angels if the neighbors took time to share with them the meaning of love. — MA

DEAR MA:

Your neighbors are lucky people. — H.

Artist To Discuss School Program

Artist Ruth Asawa of San Francisco will speak and show slides Tuesday at 9:45 a.m. in the multipurpose room of Kent Junior High School for members of the three Parent-Teacher Associations in the Kentfield School District.

An innovator in the field of art education, Mrs. Asawa will discuss her community based art program in 15 San Francisco schools.

Mrs. Asawa is acclaimed for her fountains in Ghirardelli Square and the Hyatt Hotel on Union Square, both in San Francisco, and her sculptures are in many museums and collections.

She has long been involved in the creative work of children and founded the Alvarado School art program in 1968 to introduce San Francisco children to a wide range of art media. The project involves hundreds of volunteer parents and thousands of children and has resulted in numerous school beautification projects in the city.

Arrangements to have Mrs. Asawa speak were made by Sandra Banks of the Kent School P-TA after P-TA members decided to find imaginative ways to beautify Adaline E. Kent Elementary School, oldest of the schools in the Kentfield District.

Mrs. Asawa's artistic program has involved children in creating murals, stained glass windows, bakers' clay sculpture and innovative playground equipment.

ON BEING BLACK

Curious Barrel Of Big Events During Past Year

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
(Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

SALT LAKE CITY — A black poet has stated very poignantly that the revolution will not be televised. His reference, of course, is to a revolution of a very precise nature. Not all revolutions entail blood and gore, even though some degree of pain is involved in all situations of radical change.

In looking at 1973, indeed, a portion of some kind of revolution was televised. The past is a curious container, and 1973 was no different. It was the year:

Sixteen black congressmen (four were women) and one black senator participated in the "string-pulling process" of this country.

The Pointer Sisters, a black singing group out of Oakland, brought back the songs and styles of the '40s and '50s to the delight of many who emulated their marcelled hair and platform shoes.

Arthur Ashe participated in the first interracial tennis match and Bob Foster fought in the first interracial boxing match in South Africa.

SEVERAL LARGE urban cities — Los Angeles, Atlanta and Detroit — elected black mayors.

Eight-year-old Regina, black and crippled (hence, hard to place), left the last of a lifelong series of foster homes to be legally adopted by a "subsidized" adoptive family.

The first black woman, Barbara Sizemore, was appointed to head a major urban education system as superintendent of the District of Columbia public school system. Simultaneously and sadly, Dr. Marcus Foster was assassinated in Oakland.

Black enlistment in the U.S. Army increased.

Hank Aaron came within one home run of Babe Ruth's 38-year-old home-run record.

Blacks voted in record numbers and see clearly the importance of political involvement. There were some 250 black state legislators elected.

DIANA SANDS, black actress, died of cancer.

Young persons across the country adopted the Shaft wearing apparel.

Africa came even closer to our shores, with record numbers of blacks touring, working and studying in the motherland under the auspices of the African-American Institute.

Young black girls were sterilized in Alabama and knowledge of the practice (thought by some to have existed for some time) came before the public.

Cries of black genocide erupted.

Black movie fare again galloped across the screen in see-through blouses and into dens of dope. Producers state (again) blacks and sex in combination only sell. And that's still the name of the game — sell, sell, sell.

The second of the Jackson Five brothers married, smashing the projected dreams of their young admirers — especially the Haggerty girls.

Black women became the "double minority" for employers who were disposed to have a quota of both female and black or minority employees.

TELEVISION FARE saw more blacks using X brand dish detergent, X deodorant soap and shining floors with Z wax.

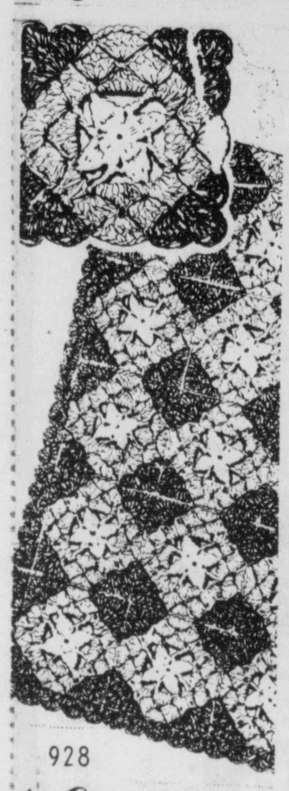

Starvation conditions existed, and still do, in parts of western Africa.

Record numbers of blacks were nominated for Academy Awards — none won, but still they were there. Paul Winfield, Cicely Tyson and Lonne Elder for "Sounder," and Diana Ross for "Lady Sings the Blues."

Suicide rates increased among young black women.

"Super" was the No. 1 adjective; "incredible" looks to be the in word for 1974. Let's hope so.

THE REAL STAR — The dolphins strikes a pose with George C. Scott from the film, "The Day of the Dolphin," which David Sterritt of the Christian Science Monitor News Services says takes off on a striking start, but then sinks fastly. The best role? The dolphin, Sterritt said.

A NICHOLS FAILURE

Film's Only Saving Grace Is Performance By Merry Dolphin

By DAVID STERRITT
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

As sure as the tides roll in and out on schedule, somebody had to make a movie about dolphins. These keenly intelligent mammals have become man's best (underwater) friends in recent years, and garnered a lot of headlines too — as marine researchers have probed their apparent powers of speech, and tried to establish the first intellectual communication between two different species.

Further, few subjects have ever been better suited to the screen than these sleekly graceful creatures dwelling in the vast, ever-cinematic stretches of the sea. Just find a dolphin, turn on a camera, and you couldn't miss for sheer visual appeal.

With "The Day of the Dolphin," Mike Nichols becomes the first major director to steer a film through this uncharted territory.

And his new picture sails off to a striking start, at least for the first few moments. Impressive aquatic scientific hocus-pocus washes across the wide screen; portentous music floods the sound-tracks; a dolphin dives, glides, leaps; the atmosphere gets so watery, it'll sog your popcorn.

Then, abruptly, filmic imagination takes a nose dive off the gray cliffs of boredom. The merry dolphin disappears from the screen, to be replaced by George C. Scott — lecturing straight into the camera with the zest of a tired zoology teacher. His words are relevant to the plot, and help prepare us for the funny phenomena that follow. But such talky exposition bodes ill for what had promised to be an exciting and eye-filling experience.

After a while the story starts swimming more briskly. The zoology lecturer turns out to be a sophisticated scientist, who's busily teaching a bright young dolphin to speak English. We also meet a bewildered businessman who helps fund the experiments; a mysterious and rather uncouth spy; and a couple of dolphins named Pha (short for Alpha) and B (for Beta). By the time the plot assumes its final tidal-wave proportions, we've also encountered a murder, a kidnapping (dolphin-napping?), and a bizarre assassination conspiracy.

Surely a fascinating adventure could have been fashioned from only half these many ingredients. Yet "The Day of the Dolphin" founders long before the end, drifting along at rowboat pace when speedboat exhilaration seems called for. Eventually, and sadly, it pretty much sinks — capsizing into incongruous black humor and the oozing sentimentality of a waterlogged "Born Free."

Much of the trouble stems from a loose and leaky screenplay provided by one of Nichols's favorite co-workers, Buck Henry ("The Graduate," "Catch-22"). And from uneven acting — Scott and Fritz Weaver, disappointing; Trish Van Devere, miscast.

But the director himself has made the most miscalculations, opening troughs of ennui between crests of beauty and excitement. He tries various methods of bailing the picture out, including gorgeous aquatic episodes that might remind you of the "Graduate" Simon and Garfunkle interludes; and an amusing characterization or two, which also step out of that earlier film. It's all been captured by the fluid camera work of William A. Fraker, but fails to tighten the inner limpness of "Dolphin" as a whole.

After a smashing cinema beginning with "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" and "The Graduate," Nichols has now extended his artistic losing streak to three straight movies.

It's a relief to see him returning to more humane grounds than he exploded in "Carnal Knowledge," and "Dolphin" does carry a touching humanity when it deals with its almost-human heroes. But it should have been a lot more fun than it has turned out to be, considering the liveliness of the subject.

General Plan Changes Will Aid Development

The Sausalito Planning Commissioner has approved zoning and general plan changes to allow commercial development on about half the site of the proposed Whiskey Springs development.

By a 3-to-2 vote, commissioners on Wednesday amended the general plan and changed zoning from residential to commercial-manufacturing for the northern 50 per cent of the approximately 13-acre site at Bridgeway and Nevada Street, the old American Distillery Co. property.

Opposing the changes were commissioners Violeta Autumn and Dorothy Gibson. Voting in favor were Robert L. Nissen, Thomas H. Gildersleeve and Frank Bowen.

Nissen justified the changes on the basis that commercial property is adjacent and across the street. He called it a logical extension of the commercial zone, according to Planning Director Herb Case.

Planning staff recommended that all the property be zoned residential, but that if commercial development were allowed, it should be no greater than 95,000 square feet, as recommended by a citizen's committee. The present project by Duffel Financial and Construction Co. calls for 150,000 square feet.

The development firm is proposing a 150-room hotel, two restaurants, two bars, a bank and 10,000 square feet of offices in addition to 85 townhouses and 12 duplexes.

Drivers Sought For Handicapped

The Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of San Francisco has appealed to persons in Marin County who are willing to drive handicapped persons to a mass, lunch and social hour on the last Sunday of each month at St. Isabella's Parish Center in Terra Linda.

Some of these persons get out only for this mass and meeting, said Mary King at the Catholic Social Service of Marin County at 179 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Jonathan Livingston Seagull" — The story of a seagull who strives for perfection has visual impact. As a parable of freedom, individuality, discipline and devotion to community, film helps to free our too often earthbound aspirations.

"Perri" — Disney sequel to "True Life Series" — A fantasy of a pair of lively squirrels, live and animated. Some emphasis on tragic side of life cycle of animal world.

"Robinhood" — In grand Disney tradition this animated musical has animals play the parts of the characters of famed English folk legend. Satiricial dialog will appeal to adults, who will have as good a time as the youngsters.

"The Wonder Of It All" — The natural beauty of untouched portions of the world woven together in this film with music and a light-hearted commentary. Glimpses of birds and animals, some rare and unusual, entertainingly presented, fast moving yet informative. Take the younger members of the family by all means. (MMP&TVC).

ADULTS AND TEENS

"American Graffiti" — Filmed in Marin County, story is just one night's activities in the lives of four boys. Some suggestive sex scenes and scruffy language.

"Bang the Drums Slowly" — Friendship develops between a superstar and an unfortunate teammate who is dying of Hodgkins disease. Some cursing, will appeal to baseball fans.

"A New Land" — Sequel to "The Emigrants" — Homesteaders in Minnesota Territory in 1850s show details of frontier life. Film is lesson in history, beauty and life. Grim realism of childbirth, mass hanging of Indians and other violence, cursing. English subtitles.

"Paper Chase" — Serio-comic story about the pressures in the lives of three freshman students at Harvard Law school. Well cast and acted, some sex scenes and profanity.

"Salzburg Connection" — Inept spy thriller has plot so confusing it dispels any suspense. A horde of international spies descend on Salzburg, Austria in search of a cache of Nazi documents. Violence.

"Seven Up" — Crime drama about a contingent of super-cops who hunt down hardcore criminals on the streets of New York. (Boxoffice Magazine)

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say adults only)

"Magnum Force" — Sequel to "Dirty Harry" — His job is to solve a mysterious series of execution type murders of unconvicted criminals. A mixture of violent, bloody gore, sadistic mayhem and fast action.

"Steelyard Blues" — Satiricial comedy about a $100-a-trick hooker and a group of zany characters, attempting to rebuild a plane with stolen parts. Violence, vulgarities in dialogue, sex.

"The Sting" — Film sounds like a manual for con-men in this cold and calculating account of a confidence job pulled off by two Chicago drifters in the 1930s. Violence and cursing.

"Up the Sandbox" — A serio-comic story of the weird fantasies of a housewife with a hyperactive imagination. Nudity.

"The Way We Were" — A humorous love story that starts in the 1930s and ends in the 1950s. An idealistic politically radical young woman and a well-to-do apolitical young man make an odd couple.

ADULTS ONLY

"Ash Wednesday" — Opening this film is a step by step surgical procedure for a face lift. An aging woman fearful of losing her husband, resorts to plastic surgery in an effort to win him back. Cursing, sex and nudity.

"Such Good Friends" — A cynical and vulgar movie about a woman who discovers her husband's many infidelities as he lies dying in the hospital. Although played for laughs it is a startling indictment of the medical profession. Graphic sex, nudity and cursing.

Writers Union Ousts Novelist

MOSCOW (UPI) — Literary sources yesterday said the Soviet Writers Union has expelled novelist Lidia Chukovskaya for publicly defending Andrei D. Sakharov, a dissenting scientist.

Miss Chukovskaya gave Western newsmen a statement defending Sakharov last autumn, when he was under almost daily attack in the official media.

Miss Chukovskaya was the second person expelled from the Writers Union in the past seven months. The union expelled novelist Vladimir Maximov in July after he published works abroad.

In a statement made available to correspondents, Maximov said the union had done Miss Chukovskaya an honor because "for some time, membership of the Soviet Writers Union has become simply insulting for any honest Russian author."

Expulsion from the union bars the official road to publishing in this country.

Board Will Use Old Cadillacs

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Members of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission have decided to make do with their four 1972 Cadillacs because of the energy crisis.

The luxury cars, brought from commission funds, usually are replaced with new models every two years, but there was a public outcry last month when the commission voted to buy four new ones.

Vice Chairman William Meehan said Tuesday the commissioners decided to table the issue "until the energy crisis is long over."

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 11, 1974 23

DESPAIR — A young schizophrenic, whose life is a muddled cycle of institutionalization followed by driftless periods, sits alone in her room. Some of Marin's youthful mental patients, whose histories usually include heavy drug abuse, will find life too much to bear and others will continue their wasted lives unless the pattern is broken.

A LIFE OF DRUGS

Tragic Ending To One Flower Child's Struggle

By MARY LEYDECKER

"She was a skinny little blonde . . . she looked like she was 16."

But Barbara was not 16. She was 26 when the coroner was called to view her body in the cluttered San Rafael apartment she shared with her "old man."

In her bedroom were six empty pill bottles. They had contained prescription drugs — tranquillizers, pain killers and barbiturates.

The coroner didn't know at first whether the pills had caused her death — or if they had — her death had been accidental or not.

But when the laboratory report came back, the coroner ended his investigation last month with the brief summary: "Suicide. Overdose of barbiturates."

So Barbara, one of the last of the "flower children" who flocked to the Bay Area in droves a few years ago, was buried in a bleak grave paid for by the county. Her divorced parents, who live in different Eastern states, were notified, but they did not come West for their daughter's funeral.

For them, apparently, their flower had wilted long ago.

At the time of her death, Barbara was under treatment of "chronic schizophrenia," which the dictionary defines as a mental illness" characterized by disturbances in thinking, involving a distortion of the usual logical relations between ideas."

Like many of today's young schizophrenics, Barbara had a long history of drug abuse, although she never had become addicted to heroin. She sometimes acted in a bizarre enough manner to attract attention from the authorities, but other times, she spent her days aimlessly wandering or sitting at home depressed.

Barbara had been hospitalized on occasion and was under the care of a psychiatrist when she died.

She existed on welfare — she was classed as disabled. Her muddled mind made it impossible for her to hold a job or to acquire additional skills and education. Her child, born of an "old man" who preceded the current one, had been taken from her by the authorities.

When Barbara took her own life, her physician was surprised. But her psychiatrist said he was "not all that surprised."

Barbara's sad little life and death are not experiences shared by most of Marin's young people. Many, many of those who once experimented with hallucinogenicz drugs in a search for some sort of a new euphoric life are now back in the mainstream.

They may make their living by selling their crafts or they may live communally in an effort to fight high costs and they may smoke a little pot, but they're productive members of society.

However, there exists a small group of Barbaras and their male counterparts — the flotsam and jetsam of a social movement that is now blowing in another direction.

They are the schizophrenics, now mostly in their mid or late 20's, for whom the past, present and future all seem bleak.

"The prognosis is guarded, to say the least," according to Dr. Charles Fleckles, the psychiatrist who heads the crisis unit at the Marin Community Mental Health Center.

"You don't really cure schizophrenia," he added.

For the Barbaras, whose problems are compounded by drug use, the chances of improvement are slight.

Doctors are loath to say that drugs caused schizophrenia in these cases, but it's been "at least a precipitating" factor, according to Dr. Fleckles.

"It's hard to tell," the psychiatrist said, whether these young people have had brain damage from such hallucinogenics as LSD.

He said the brain damage theory has not been proved one way or another by scientists.

But the saddest factor of all for these young schizophrenics is that "many don't want to be treated," and, even for those who are amenable, cutbacks in the state mental hospitals and other factors make it difficult.

They "need a structured setting," Dr. Fleckles said, and current state legislation makes it unlikely they will be committed, for least for any length of time, to state hospital.

Experience has shown, he said, that the Synanon-type of facility, which works well for many "nonpsychotic addicts," does not help the drug-oriented schizophrenic who resents the authority he finds there and cannot cooperate because of his mental state.

The half-way houses are ineffective usually, too, according to Dr. Fleckles, because the young schizophrenic tends to drift away.

So these young people, for whom therapy is also usually ineffective, live in a endless cycle of periods of institutionalization followed by a rudderless existence.

Although Barbara's parents had long since cut their ties with her, this is not always the case, Dr. Fleckles said. Many of the young schizophrenics have families who continue to try to find help for their children.

About three years ago, a group of four families in Marin banded together to try to solve their similar problems. Today "Marin Parents for Mental Recovery" has grown to about 35 families, all of whom have schizophrenic children.

Except for one member who moved away and one who died, the group has kept its original members because they still face the same problems.

"We're still having a terrible time with our own son," one of the members said.

In an effort to break the dismal cycle, the parents have worked for three years, without official or professional encouragement, to set up a facility that may help their children.

"It's been a long, long struggle," the mother said, but next month the group will lease a former halfway house in San Rafael as a treatment center.

Money has been obtained from two foundations, along with a county grant of $10,000, and a director hired.

These parents, convinced that a structured setting with a strong staff will at last provide a program for their youngsters, are pinning almost their last hope on the new facility.

Otherwise, the future doesn't seem to hold much for the Barbaras and the other wilted flowers.

Man Is Held In Robbery Try At Bank

A 20-year-old San Rafael man was arrested on suspicion of attempted bank robbery yesterday following an aborted holdup at the Bank of America.

Robert Lee Wallace, of 32 Auburn Street, was held by the FBI to appear before a federal magistrate today in San Francisco.

San Rafael police said a man matching Wallace's description walked up to an outside teller's window at the bank at 65 Medway in the Canal area and handed over a note demanding money "or I'll blow your head off."

The man fled after the teller ignored the note and walked [illegible] said.

[illegible] Rafael police said they found Wallace walking near Francisco Boulevard in a daze about 10 minutes after the aborted robbery.

Coast Controls Hearings Slated

Public hearings will begin next week on proposals for tight controls on development and uses along California's 1,072 miles of ocean coastline.

The proposals, by the staffs of the state and regional coastal commissions, call for an absolute prohibition on diking and filling in all estuaries and wetlands, removal of sewage discharges from lagoons and estuaries, and protection of "valued" rather than just "endangered" marine species. (Another coast commission story, page 1.)

The first hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Granada School in Corte Madera. others will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Hall of Flowers, Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, and 7:30 p.m. Jan. 22 in Santa Rosa at Herbert Salter Junior High School.

The commission also will discuss the controls, the first part of a master plan due by 1976, at 7 p.m. on Feb. 7 in the Marin Civic Center. Adoption is set for Feb. 21.

Subsequent reports will come in the next few months on geology, oil well drilling, supertanker terminals, power plant siting, recreation and other subjects.

Marin Septic Tank Ordinance Will Have To Be Toughened Up

Marin County's septic tank ordinance, ballyhooed as the state's toughest when adopted in 1972, will have to be drastically toughened to conform to new changes in state regulations, the Bay Area's top water pollution official said last night.

The call for overhaul of the ordinance was made by Fred H. Dierker, executive officer of the Regional Water Quality Control Board, in a talk before the North Central Coast Regional Commission in the Marin Civic Center.

Commission Chairman Michael Wornum, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, promised the matter will be taken up by county staff.

Dierker noted a new policy about to be adopted by the State Water Resources Control Board will prohibit installations where the ground slope is greater than 30 per cent. The county's ordinance has no such prohibition, Dierker noted.

Dierker declined to comment on the county's enforcement of its ordinance "without making a thorough study of this subject."

(Bolinas attorney Paul Kayfetz, a director of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, told the Independent-Journal last night that the county's ordinance was "a crock" and was being poorly enforced.)

San Rafael Joe's Sets Expansion, Extensive Remodeling This Spring

There is always an advantage for the restaurant that has a location within easy reach of many people — and if hundreds of them pass by the front door every day, that advantage is multiplied.

It's increased still more if the food is good and also reasonable. Put a nice frame around it and it can't miss.

San Rafael Joe's is one place that fits the picture. Moreover it's been in the 900 block of downtown Fourth Street, San Rafael, for 27 years and about half of that period at the present location. The first half was spent just a few doors east. Can you imagine how many people have walked and driven by in all those years and how many of them have gone inside?

The Rubinis and the Farinas have made the most of it and are not about to give it up. They are now serving many of the sons and daughters of their original patrons and probably a few grandchildren, too. This is a family place and always will be.

It's been gussied up from time to time and has been made particularly attractive. Everyone who goes there seems to like it and most of them go back. After they go there long enough they get to know the owners Hector and Nancy Rubini and Guido and Teresa Farina and like them, too.

But all this has built up a problem and it's time for another change — a big one. If you happened in last New Year's Eve or if you visit any Friday or Saturday night you know that it's fairly bursting at the seams with customers. Something simply has to be done.

And something will be done this spring. San Rafael Joe's will double its size by taking on the present space of its next door neighbor, San Rafael Toy Shop. The latter will undoubtedly move to another nearby Fourth Street location and negotiations are under way. The change will be made April 1, when Walt Zurcher's lease expires.

There will be extensive remodeling, of course, resulting in a much bigger kitchen, larger lounge for organist Larry Vannucci's listeners, new rest rooms — and many more tables.

The changeover will take some time. Hector says that after April 1 workmen will start first next door and later break through the wall to tie everything together. There will be a short period of closing when this happens, but it is hoped that it may be kept very short.

And since the Rubini and Farina families have enough younger members to go on and on, even as their customers, so may San Rafael Joe's go on and on for another 27 years or longer.

NOT JUST ONE — but two new restaurants have opened in Rohnert Park.

The Gold Coin, serving Chinese and American food, has taken over the spot at 7311 College View Drive formerly occupied by the Carriage House. New owners Jim and Charlie Wong already have one Gold Coin restaurant at 2400 Mendocino Avenue, Santa Rosa.

Both specialize in Cantonese and Mandarin dishes, serve a $1.85 smorgasbord lunch (also salads and sandwiches) from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., and family Chinese dinners and American dinners from 3 to 10 later on Fridays and Saturdays). Both have a nice cocktail lounge, are done in Polynesian decor, offer Polynesian drinks and do outside catering.

The Rohnert Park restaurant also has banquet and party accommodations for up to 250 persons and has entertainment Friday and Saturday nights.

The other new place in Rohnert Park is Steven's Restaurant and Coffee Shop, opened early last month.

THERE ARE NEW OWNERS at the Black Forest Inn in Santa Rosa. Dieter Meier and Bob Schreck sold out the first of this year to Clovis Soubrand and Klaus Schestner, who are continuing the same type of operation and German, French and American menu.

BUNNY'S KOUNTRY KITCHEN at Kenwood in the Valley of the Moon, Sonoma County, is now serving lunches daily from noon to 4 p.m. — daily specials, omelets and sandwiches. Dinners are served after that — steaks, chicken and fresh fish in season, seven days a week. Bar is open from 10 a.m. to midnight.

SAN RAFAEL JOE'S — Dining out means San Rafael Joe's on Fourth Street to many residents in Marin. The restaurant plans extensive remodeling and enlargement to an adjacent building this spring. At right is Nancy Rubini, the dining room hostess.

ALSO IN THE VALLEY OF THE MOON, the Waterwheel Restaurant at Glen Ellen has closed for an indeterminate period.

IN THE CITY OF SONOMA, there's a brand new restaurant called Gino's at 422 First Street East. The owner, who calls himself "Gino Roselli," has taken the historical Old Hoss bar and converted it into a red carpeted Italian dinery.

It serves both lunches and dinners and is open seven days a week, but omits dinners on Mondays. Lunches from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. consist of merchants plates and sandwiches. Dinners Tuesdays through Sundays are from 5 to 9:30 p.m. Menu varies from night to night and meals are in the $4.50-$5 range.

The place is filled with interesting artifacts of its early years. A banquet room may be added sometime this year. Meanwhile, it offers a catering service for parties of 5 up to 300 or more under the name of Il Desinare.

You'll find it almost across the street from La Casa Mexican restaurant, where former manager M. G. Martinez is now the owner. He bought out Al Gordon.

CHEZ MADELEINE, that popular little French restaurant out near Point Reyes Station, will open again after a closing of two months. Closing during December and January will probably become a regular thing for owners Madeleine and Roger Kieffer.

IN TIBURON, Rooney's Garden Cafe, which was closed for a few weeks for remodeling, has opened again with a much larger kitchen — the better to make those delicious soups and bake those homemade breads.

CONGRATULATIONS to Max

Givone, new manager at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael, after two years or so as assistant manager. He has taken over Mario Brenta's post.

THREE MARIN RESTAURANTS are having anniversaries this month and also deserve congratulations:

Matts and Phyllis Mattsson will celebrate their ninth at The Old Viking in Lagunitas.

Dali Feenjon in San Rafael is another one with a first. Owners Gar and Torkan May opened just about the same time — maybe a day or two earlier last January.

AND CONGRATULATIONS to Katie Mitchell of Ignacio for her pocket-size Executive 21 Marin County dining guide of 21 recommended restaurants.

THE BUCKEYE RESTAURANT — Close enough to Sausalito to be on that community's telephone exchange, but considered by the Post Office as having a Mill Valley mailing address (17 Shoreline Highway) — has changed its closing days to Sundays and Mondays instead of Mondays and Tuesdays.

We'll bow to the postal authorities and put it under Mill Valley in our forthcoming Dining and Wining Guide.

Governor Requests Funds For Pay Hikes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State employees ranging from college professors to gardeners would share in $207.1 million in pay increases under Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed 1974- 75 state budget.

The spending proposal provided an average increase of 7 per cent for California's 116,562 civil servants. That would come on top of a 7.8 per cent pay boost they were given during the current fiscal year.

The California State Employes Association, however, is seeking 10.8 per cent salary increase in 1974-75.

Reagan also proposed a 3 per cent increase in fringe benefits for civil servants.

University of California professors would have a 4.7 per cent pay boost while state university teachers would receive a 5.4 per cent increase.

Nonfaculty employees of both systems would have a 3.7 per cent hike.

In his budget message, Reagan said the salary increases were needed "because state employees are the key to successful performance by the state of its assigned tasks."

The governor also provided $1.4 million for 177 new positions in the attorney general's office. His aides said the new posts were created to continue work which was once federally funded.

The budget anticipated the number of total state employees would rise by 715 from the current 197,856 to 198,568.

About 223 of the new positions would go to the University of California and 121 to the state colleges.

Frazier Murder Verdict Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The state Court of Appeal upheld the conviction of mass murderer John L. Frazier but changed his death sentence to life in prison.

Frazier, 26, was convicted in Santa Cruz County Superior Court in 1972 of killing five persons at a mountain top mansion.

He contended unsuccessfully that his judge committed seven errors.

Jurors convicted him of murdering Dr. Victor Ohta, 47, an ophthalmologist; the doctor's wife, Virginia, 41; their sons, Taggart, 11, and Derek, 12; and the doctor's secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Cadwallader, 38.

Small Hike Is Asked For Welfare

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed state budget contains $4.4 billion for welfare and Medi-Cal costs, up slightly from the $4.3 billion allotted for the current fiscal year.

Proposed welfare expenditures totalled $2.8 billion for the 1974-75 fiscal year compared to $2.7 billion for the current year.

Medi-Cal costs for the current year ran about $1.58 billion with the proposed expenditures for 1974-75 rising to $1.63 billion for the next fiscal year.

Medi-Cal provides health care for about 2.4 million low income California residents.

Beginning Jan. 1, welfare checks were sent to the aged, blind and disabled recipients by the federal government under a new federal law. The recipients also were granted a boost in the payments under state legislation enacted last month.

State Finance Director Verne Orr said the budget did not provide for any unusual increase in the number of welfare recipients that might be caused by the energy crisis.

The proposed budget also said the Reagan administration has begun a "second step of welfare reform."

It requires recipients of aid to families with dependent children "to file more frequent but simplified reports on income, increases efforts to obtain child support from absent fathers, and deals with food stamp abuses."

The Department of Benefit Payments will also be formed beginning July 1 to handle welfare payments.

Army Attempts To Right Wrong

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White haired and hoarse at age 87, Minneapolis shoeshine man Dorsie W. Willis, got a check for $25,000 yesterday from the Army for an unjust dishonorable discharge 67 years ago.

Willis is the only known survivor of a 1906 racial incident in Brownsville, Tex., in which 167 black soldiers were drummed out of the Army because of a shooting spree for which officials could not pin the blame.

Willis has spent the past 60 years shining shoes in a Minneapolis barber shop. After being given his honorable discharge 11 months ago, Willie said, "I'll feel better if they give me some money."

Reagan Seeks Headstart Fund

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The next California governor-elect would receive an unprecedented $125,000 to get a headstart for his administration under Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed state budget.

The 1974-75 budget also would nearly double taxpayers' contributions to the lucrative legislators retirement system to sweeten pension benefits to lawmakers pushed out of office because of reapportionment.

No funds were earmarked for the proposed new state Capitol because Reagan believes the $42 million already appropriated for any possible new building could not be spent during the coming fiscal year.

Verne Orr, Reagan's financial chief, said the governor wanted to provide his successor with some staff funds "to get him off to a running start."

The $125,000 would be spent by the next governor between the Nov. 5 election and his inauguration on Jan. 6, 1975, to prepare his plan. Orr said this would be the first time for such funding.

The state's contributions to the legislators' retirement fund will soar from $654,171 this year to $1.14 million during 1974-75. The hike, in part, is to pay for higher benefits which will be given to lawmakers who retire before 1975 because of the recent reapportionment.

The budget for the Legislature's operations was pegged at $45.7 million, slightly below current spending. Orr said he had "no idea" why the lawmakers would be spending less because the governor's office never questions the budget submitted by the Assembly and Senate.

Reagan's office would be spending $2.9 million during the governor's final year in office, up $271,954 from the current budget because of higher salaries.

No New Wildlife Projects In Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Approximately $1 million in state wildlife projects were shelved indefinitely yesterday and no new construction proposed in Gov. Ronald Reagan's Department of Fish and Game budget for the 1974-75 fiscal year.

The proposed $27.4 million budget provides for increased expenditures of $1.2 million over the current budget. The increase, according to the governor's budget message, is for salary adjustments and staff benefits, increased fish food costs and higher gasoline prices.

"In order to remain within existing funds, approximately $1 million of major capital outlay projects now authorized are being deferred and no new projects are proposed in the budget year," Reagan said.

The delayed projects included construction of a regional fish and game headquarters at Nimbus Dam and a fish trap on the Glenn-Colusa Canal.

The department, which maintains 22 hatcheries for the stocking of 5,000 lakes and 30,000 miles of streams, faces a $5 million deficit over the next two years, according to fish and game officials.

The department currently is mapping plans to increase sport fishing license stamps by $1 each and hiking the hunting license fee from $6 to $10.

How Dollar To Be Spent

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Here is how the taxpayer's dollar would be spent :

Elementary and secondary education, 28.5 cents; health and welfare, 24.5 cents; property tax relief, 11.1 cents; higher education, 10.9 cents; business and transportation, 7.3 cents; agriculture and general services, 1.8 cents; shared revenue with local government, 7.8 cents; resources, 2.3 cents, and miscellaneous, 5.8 cents.

Here is how the same dollar would be collected:

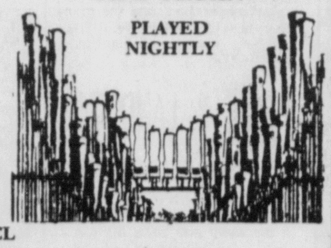

Sales tax, 34 cents; personal income tax, 24.5 cents; bank and corporation tax, 11.3 cents; highway users taxes, 11.3 cennts; motor vehicle license feess, 3.7 cents; inheritance and gift taxes, 3.2 cents; insurance tax, 2.2 cents; liquor taxes and fees, 1.6 cents; cigarette tax, 2.8 cents; horseracing fees 0.9 cents, and miscellaneous, 4.5 cents.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Conservation Votes Said Better

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Legislature achieved an improved voting record in 1973 on environmental matters but any progress was offset by vetoes by Gov. Ronald Reagan, an environmental watchdog group said today.

Legislative Birdwatchers Inc., a non-profit Sacramento organization, also listed the top conservation voter in the Senate as Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland.

The top Assembly honor was shared by Ray Gonzales, D-Bakersfield, Walter Ingalls, D-Riverside, Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, and Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys.

Joan R. Reiss, Birdwatcher president, said that the Senate progressed from a 61 per cent pro-environmental voting record in 1971 to 69 per cent in 1973. During the same period, the Assembly went from 70 per cent to 77 per cent.

"Unfortunately the legislature's progress was more than offset by the governor's heavy anti-environmental veto," said Mrs. Reiss.

"Regardless of how affirmatively the legislature acts in behalf of the environment until the governor does the same, there will be no substantial progress and the environemt will continue to deteriorate," she said.

FIRST BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The first bill passed during the 1974 legislative session, a relatively minor measure validating school bond elections held Jan. 8, was signed yesterday by Gov. Reagan.

Author of the measure (AB2692) was assemblyman Joseph B. Montoya, D-La Puente.

PICKUP FEES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh has launched an effort to repeal a controversial $4.5 million increase in 1974 license fees for lightweight pickup trucks.

State officials have been deluged with complaints from motorists about the new hike approved by the 1973 legislature. Some motorists declared the increase—$15 per vehicle— discouraged efforts to ease the energy crisis by penalizing economy-sized pickups.

Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, yesterday introduced a bill which would repeal the increase only for pickups weighing less than 3,000 pounds.

The Deddeh bill (AB2740) would once again permit motorists to choose whether their pickup was registered as a "commercial vehicle" or a regular passenger vehicle.

ENERGY PACKAGE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A wide-ranging series of energy conservation measures prohibiting pilot lights on household appliances and allowing tax deductions for building insulation was introduced yesterday in the Senate.

Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, said his legislation would save a "tremendous amount of (natural) gas" by banning the pilot lights.

He also declared his proposals would permit tax deductions for weather stripping, storm doors and double-paned glass in addition to insulation.

His proposals would require insulation on existing houses when they are sold, allow a state income tax deduction for the full cost of energy-saving devices used on a building and establish a program of low-interest loans to finance the installation of energy insulation.

Other features of the legislation would require the installation of attic fans in "dwelling units" where it could achieve a reduction in the use of air conditioning and ban the Public Utilities Commission from approving a public carrier when another carrier provides the equivalent service and operates more efficiently.

The energy saving package also called for car pool programs for state government as well as the general public.

LT. GOVERNOR

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The lieutenant governor's duty to serve as president of the Senate with the power to cast tiebreaking votes would be eliminated under legislation introduced yesterday in the Assembly.

"If we believe in our principle of separation of powers, it does not make sense to have a member of the executive branch as a presiding officer of the legislature," said the measure's author, freshman Assemblyman Raymond Gonzales, D-Bakersfield.

Presiding over the Senate is one of the few important duties of the lieutenant governor.

DISCLOSURE LAW

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Many of California's top educators would be required to disclose their personal finances under a bill introduced yesterday by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose.

The measure (AB2759) would extend the new state conflict-of-interest law to cover the University of California regents, California state university trustees, and the community colleges board of governors.

The bill, sponsored by the Joint Committee on the Master Plan for Higher Education, would force education officials to disclose to the public their sources of income over $250 and assets exceeding $1,000.

POT PENALTIES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The penalty for possessing four ounces or less of marijuana would be reduced from a possible felony to a misdemeanor under a bill introduced yesterday by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty.

Under the bill (AB2758) the maximum penalty for possessing four ounces or less of marijuana would be six months in county jail or a $500 fine or both.

Sieroty said his legislation would not affect present felony provisions for possession of large quantities of marijuana and penalties for marijuana sale or possession for sale.

UTILITY RATES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill (AB2771) directing the state Public Utilities Commisson to grant a lower utility rates for senior citizens was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman Jim Keysor, D-Los Angeles.

KING HOLIDAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation establishing a state holiday to honor slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman Frank Holoman, D-Los Angeles.

The bill AB21775) would grant state employes a holiday on Jan. 25 for "Martin Luther King Day."

New Silicone Method Is Safe For Enlargement Of Breasts

A New Yorker writes: "Large breasts can be made smaller by plastic surgery, but what bout making small breasts larger? Years ago silicone injections were supposed to be the answer, but this technique proved to be dangerous, and no longer is recommended. Can anything else be done that is relatively safe? My lingerie drawer is full of falsies — I'm in the market for the real thing."

You are right about silicone injections. Use of injections (under pressure) of pure medical grade silicone is controled by the Food and Drug Administration. Only qualified investigators are allowed to use it for plastic surgery elsewhere in the body.

SILICONE HAS been known to leave the breasts and migrate to the glands in the armpits and possibly to other organs. Massive abscesses have also been reported, including a few deaths. Much of the popularity of breast enlargement has stemmed from the onset of topless waitresses and showgirls.

Plastic surgeons today use a safer prosthesis that is implanted under the breasts, It consists of a special silicone bag or sheath that is filled with liquid silicone. An incision is usually made under the lower part of the breast and the bag containing the silicone gel is inserted between the pectoral muscles and the breast tissue. These implants are available in various sizes and weights.

THE SPECIFIC gravity and softness of the gel closely approximates normal breast tissue. The container or sheath prevents the silicone from migrating elsewhere or in response to gravity. These prostheses contain enough of the gel to maintain firmness and shape. Other types also are available.

Breasts enlarge naturally during adolescence and pregnancy. Many women also know that the breasts get larger when they gain weight and smaller when they lose a few pounds. Mechanical breast enlargers such as vacuum cups should never be used. There also are a variety of breast developers in which exercisers are used to increase the pectoral muscle mass under the breast. Claims are made of increasing the bustline many inches. But this measurement also includes the muscles of the back, which also enlarge with this type of exercise.

School After 'Chaw In Jaw'

COPPERAS COVE, Tex. (UPI) — The principal of Copperas Cove High School said yesterday the school board had taken steps to stop students from coming to class with a "chaw in the jaw or a dip in their lip."

Glynn Powell said students had been sidestepping an anti-tobacco rule directed at cigarette smoking by chewing tobacco and dipping snuff.

"We've had tobacco use rules before but they didn't say anything about spitting and chewing," Powell said. "We've amended that now to include all uses of tobacco."

He said that the "No Smoking" sign in the gymnasium will be changed to read, "No Smoking, No Paper Cups, No Chewing and No Dipping."

Boosts In Tire Prices Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council has approved the second price rise in three months for eight major tire makers.

The second round increases total $190 million, and average 3.28 per cent. Another $190 million dollars was approved by the Council last October.

The Council, announcing approval of the second increase Wednesday, said it would hold hearings Jan. 22 on another prenotification by the tire companies of increases totalling $209 million.

A Lindbergh Cup Recovered

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Police Tuesday recovered a gold trophy cup awarded to aviator Charles Lindbergh when he made his historic solo flight from New York to Paris in 1927.

The cup was stolen last Friday night along with two sterling silver busts of Lindbergh and his wife, valued at $25,000 each, and a picture frame. The items were taken from a collection of Lindbergh memorabilia at the Missouri Historical Society in Forest Park.

Police in St. Louis County said they received an anonymous telephone tip and found the trophy wrapped in paper at the entrance of the Missouri Hills Training School for Boys. The cup was valued at $1,250. It had been awarded to Lindbergh by the London Daily Mail.

Soviet Novelist Attacked Again

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet commentator Yuri Zhukov denounced novelist Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn anew today but said he did not know what action, if any, authorities would take against him.

In a special television broadcast last night, Zhukov attacked Solzhenitsyn for publishing abroad a new book on Stalinist prison camp called "The Gulag Archipelago."

But he said he did not want to make a martyr of the writer. This led some Western diplomats to believe Zhukov, a Communist party newspaper commentator, was signaling an official decision to take no action against Solzhenitsyn.

Duke Denounces Wedding Rumors

LONDON (UPI) — It is most idiotic, says the Duke of Wellington, to think that Prince Charles will marry his daughter just because the queen will come to call at his home this summer.

"I would have thought that I had denied these rumors enough times and that everybody would be satisfied by now," he told the London Evening News.

Speculation that the Prince of Wales would marry Lady Jane Wellesley, 22, was boosted today by the announcement that Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip would visit the Duke and Duchess of Wellington's home in July to attend a country fair.

'Dirty Sally' Debuts On TV Tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — A new Western series rolls on TV tonight, banjo and harmonica music akimbo. Its title song goes, "There was an old woman known as Dirty Sally, found an outlaw wounded in the valley."

The odd couplet is about an odd couple. It is a suitable alert for things to come in CBS' "Dirty Sally," a spin-off series from a two-part "Gunsmoke" opus — make that opi — shown in March 1971.

It stars Jeanette Nolan as an unkempt, irascible, lovable old battleax and Dack Rambo as a reformed young gunfighter who is accompanying her as far as the gold fields of California.

The best one can say about it is that it is bound to pave the way for a humorous version of "Gilligan's Island."

It ends with Cyrus Pike (Rambo) advising Dirty Sally he's leaving her when they reach California because he doesn't want to be mother-henned forever.

"Haw," she cackles. "You ain't even learned to cockadoodledoo."

How does it begin: Well, okay, but we warned you.

The duo is traveling by wagon through the desert. They see a well-dressed but tired and tearful fair maiden sitting on a rock. She's in great distress and not because of the rock.

Her husband, an incurable gambler, has tarried at a shack a few miles outside town for poker matters with five cutthroats. He won handsomely at first, but. . .

Ah yes, it's the old flim-flam game and hubby's been picked cleaner than a censor's mind. He's left her in the desert and hoofed to town to buy a new horse and wagon with their remaining cash.

We don't want to reveal the middle and spoil it all, but suffice it to say that all ends well, except for the flim-flam five.

It could have been a funny show had the producers tried to bring the flavor of the old "Maverick" series to it.

After all, there is a noble ring to such Dirty Sally lines as, "If I had my druthers I'd take my musket and blast ya," and, "Red-eye, neat. Sarsaparilla for the kid."

But "Maverick" this ain't. Right now, it's just "Ma and Junior Kettle" in an old West setting for 30 minutes. Maybe it'll improve in coming weeks. Let us bow our heads in prayer.

A STAR IS BORN — American television viewers may have a new TV sweetheart on their hands — Jeanette Nolan, who plays the title role in "Dirty Sally" which debuts tonight on CBS. (UPI Telephoto)

Richmond Bus Link Under Study

A hearing officer for the state Public Utilities Commission yesterday took under submission a private bus company's request to operate between San Rafael and Richmond.

W. S. Pilling said at the conclusion of the hearing at Marin County Civic Center that he will present his findings to the full commission for action in about two months.

The request, by Traveler's Transit Co. of San Rafael, seeks authorization to run small 12-passenger buses between the Greyhound Bus Depots in San Rafael and Richmond.

The proposed route would serve San Quentin Prison, currently not on any bus schedule. One-way fares from San Rafael would be 50 cents to San Quentin and $1 to Richmond, the company said.

There would be 10 round trips per day — four in the morning, two in the afternoon and four in the evening.

A spokesman for the company told Pilling there is currently no transit service between Marin and the East Bay where hundreds of Marinites are employed.

The request drew opposition from the Metropolitan Transportation Commission which said studies are under way between it, the Golden Gate Bridge District and A/C Transit for San Rafael-Richmond service.

Donald Morgan, a transportation commission staff member, urged that if the request is granted, it be conditioned with a cancellation clause.

His position was supported by the bridge district and Marin County Transit District.

A cancellation clause would mean Traveler's Transit could make no claim for compensation when the publicly owned bus systems start their service over the Richmond bridge.

Federal law, regulating the granting of transit funds, says private operators shall not be put out of business without compensation unless there is a cancellation clause.

Communication Lack Seen For Disasters

County Disaster Council members and Marin officials agreed that much work is needed to imrpove emergency communications at a meeting Wednesday.

But County Administrator John F. Barrows questioned whether Frank E. Kirby, county emergency services coordinator, needed a radio-equipped car.

"If something happens, Kirby is needed here in the Civic Center, not at the end of a radio," Barrows said, according to Kirby.

Sonoma, San Francisco, Contra Costa and most other Bay Area counties provide their top emergency officials with vehicles equipped with two-way radios.

The disaster council asked the county communications department to report in March on recommended equipment and cost for providing radio capability for the emergency coordinator.

None of Marin County's 120 schools have any communications other than telephones, which could be overloaded or disabled in a disaster, the council was told. Dr. Virgil S. Hollis, superintendent of schools, received council support for a communications department study of the problem. As an interim measure, the council voted to ask the county board of supervisors to tie the county schools office and Marin Red Cross headquarters into the emergency teletype network that serves the county offices and all city halls.

Dymally Bares Income Figures

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, reports his personal income totaled $37,995 in 1973.

The Dymally financial report yesterday showed the Los Angeles lawmaker earned $26,557 from the state and received $10,718 in outside income, including $7,922 as a public affairs consultant and $1,229 from an accident settlement.

The report also showed Dymally received $720 in fees for speeches.

No Presidential Dreams For Her

ARDMORE, Okla. (UPI) — Mary Albert, the wife of House Speaker Carl Albert, says she is happy her husband did not become President during the time he was first in line of succession to the office.

"I just couldn't take all of those Secret Service men hanging around and I would take off for home, which is South Carolina, or North Carolina to visit relatives," she said.

Rep. Albert, D-Okla., was first in line during the period between Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as vice president and Gerald Ford's assumption of the office.

Emperor's Poem Read At Party

TOKYO (UPI) — Emperor Hirohito's latest poem was read three times at the imperial poetry party yesterday. The work, in the 31-syllable Waka form, dealt with "Asa," or morning.

"Beyond the hills," it read,
"Is seen in twilight
"The island of Toshima
"In the sea of morning calm."

Among the guests at the imperial palace were the emperor and empress, Crown Prince Akihito, other members of the royal family, and nearly 90 others, including 10 members of the public whose works were also read. They had been chosen from among 30,000 entries.

The Empress's poem:

"In the light of dawn I saw
"A bank of clouds turning crimson
"Oh, there was the morn already
"Over the land of Tzu."

Warm Up The TV For Super Sunday

The time has come for all of us to forget that we gorged ourself with television football over the New Year's holidays while we get ready for the biggest of them all — the Super Bowl.

The only problem is that past Super Bowls have turned into bores as teams played so conservatively the players would have looked better in dark suits and ties rather than football garb. And Miami, the team favored by six points to beat Minnesota, is the biggest culprit.

The Dolphins set themselves up as living examples that you don't have to be flashy to win the world championship of football. If they have to, the Dolphins can strike with suddenness on the "big play." But most of the time they don't have to. They would rather let Larry do it. That Larry, of course, is the guy who wears number 39 and runs over people, Larry Csonka.

MIAMI'S EARLY game plan is to maintain ball control with a running game and get the upper hand. They keep the excitement to a minimum. When they are successful in this plan, which is most of the time, they get off to a lead and force the opposition to start passing. Then the game's best defensive backfield goes to work and picks off a pass or two and then all of a sudden they make a good team look bad.

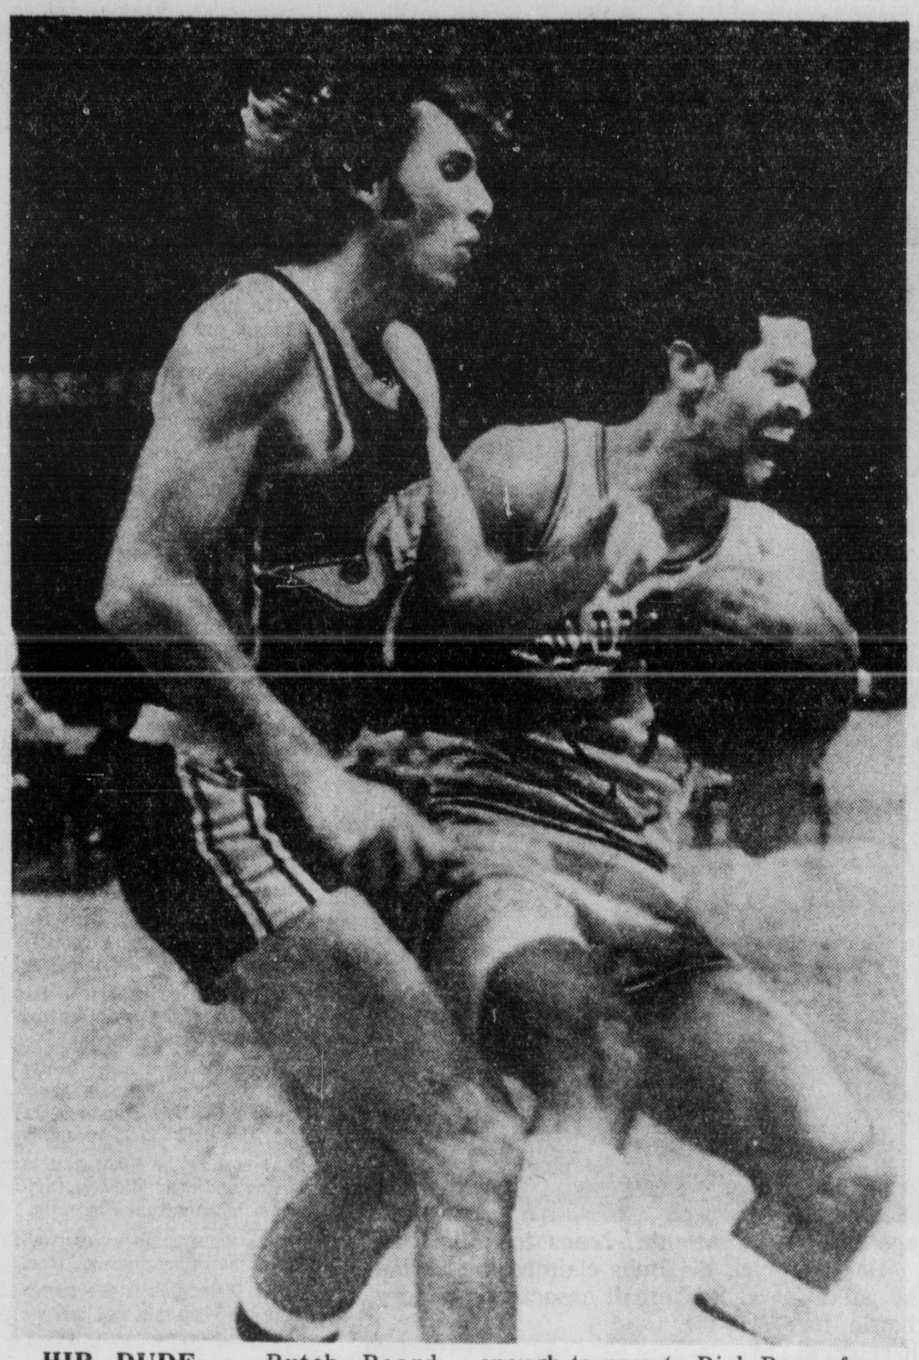

For Minnesota to win Sunday in Houston, the Vikings will have to get out in front early. And with a man like Francis Tarkenton at the controls, there is a chance for some excitement, a rarity in Super Bowl competition. Tarkenton has said he thinks the Dolphins can be beaten by the bomb, so he might come out trying for the big punch early. I wish Francis all the success in the world, but in a faceoff with his arm and the Dolphins' defensive backfield, I'll bet on the likes of Jake Scott, Dick Anderson, Curtis Johnson and Lloyd Mumphord every time.

IT WON'T be impossible for the Vikings to get behind and then come back, but very seldom can a team beat the Dolphins in that fashion. Miami is very much like a machine in this respect. If that machine is well oiled and running smoothly, according to game plan, it's an awesome sight. The Vikings will have to throw a rock into this machine and force the Dolphins to gamble with a passing game.

Despite the over-saturation of TV football which is starting to make many fans feel like oval shaped sponges, CBS-TV is predicting that 70 million viewers throughout the world will be tuned in to the happenings from Rice Stadium in Houston.

TO MAKE SURE there is Super coverage, CBS will have a crew of 140 persons on the broadcast team and 15 cameras zooming in and out of the stadium, one as close as the sidelines and another thousands of feet away in a blimp. Of the 140, the three we viewers will be most concerned with are Ray Scott, play-by-play, Pat Summerall, color man, and Bart Starr, in charge of commenting on instant replay. That trio won't provide the humor and controversy of a Meredith-Cosell-Gifford team but who needs it? With $15,000 going to each member of the winning team, the Super Bowl is no laughing matter. That is the precise reason it is usually played so conservatively.

But a conservative Fran Tarkenton? It will never happen. Regardless of my hopes, I'm still picking the Dolphins to win. Oh, what a bore.

Attles Has Worries In Warriors' Win

OAKLAND (AP) — The Golden State Warriors held a 22-point advantage over the Seattle SuperSonics at halftime, but coach Al Attles was nervous.

"I told the guys not to think about it being 62-40, but rather that it was 0-0 and we were starting all over," he said, recalling how the Warriors have let big leads slip away in many games over the past three weeks.

This time the Warriors didn't ease up and instead, scored an easy 125-89 National Basketball Association triumph last night.

It was the second straight victory for Golden State, moving the team within two games of the idle first-place Los Angeles Lakers of the Pacific Division. Seattle, meanwhile, fell 6½ games off the Lakers' pace.

"We just had a three-week slump when we weren't getting much off the bench and the starters were also having their problems," Attles said. "We were playing some good basketball in spurts but never had a sustained effort like we did tonight."

The Sonics saw the Warriors' big lead, too. Coach Bill Russell threw in the towel shortly after the second half began, choosing to give his bench personnel some playing time.

"It was obvious we weren't going to win," said Russell. "I was more concerned about getting some guys rested because we play New York Friday night."

Forward Rick Barry topped the scoring for Golden State with 21 points. Cazzie Russell added 20 more. Seattle center Jim Fox led the Sonics with 15 points, and Fred Brown had 14.

Marin Academy Wins

Marin Academy's undefeated wrestling team improved its record to 6-0 yesterday with a 23-20 victory over the junior varsity from visiting Hogan High of Vallejo, with 175-pounder Hugh Westermeyer's 45-second pin highlighting the action.

Finley May Have Buyer

OAKLAND (UPI) — If Charlie Finley is serious about wanting to sell his World Champion Oakland A's he might have a built-in buyer in Ed Daly, his friend and chairman of the board of World Airways.

Daly, who once was interested in buying the Seattle Pilots and later withdrew when he became aware of the club's financial problems, confirmed yesterday that if Finley is interested in selling the A's he would be interested in talking to him about it.

"I haven't talked with Charlie about the club since returning home from a long trip abroad," Daly said, "but if Charlie is serious about selling the club I'd be interested."

A Chicago newspaper reported two days ago that Finley, who suffered a heart attack last summer, has been ordered by doctors to divest himself of his sports interests, which include the National Hockey League Seals and the American Basketball Association Tams as well as the A's.

"Once before I talked with Charlie about buying the A's," Daly said. "but he wasn't interested in selling at that time. I wouldn't rule out the possibility of meeting with him now and making an offer for the club."

Reportedly, Finley is asking $15 million for the A's and around $7 million for the Seals. No fixed price has been set on the Tams. The NHL currently is negotiating for the purchase of the Seals.

Daly said that if he bought the A's he would keep them in Oakland and would try to hire Dick Williams as manager.

"Williams played a big part in winning two World Championships," Daly said, "and I'd certainly want him as my manager."

Williams announced yesterday he plans to sit things out while waiting to see what happens to a suit he has filed against Finley. Williams had two years remaining on a three-year contract with the A's and broke it with the idea of taking over the New York Yankees. But American League president Joe Cronin told him he couldn't work for the Yankees while under a valid contract with the A's.

Novato Bids To Rebound Against Drake Hoopsters

Novato High School, which barely missed defeating Redwood Tuesday, will have another chance tonight to earn an early-season victory over a tough Marin County Athletic League basketball opponent tonight.

The Hornets will host defending champion Drake at 8 p.m. The rest of tonight's schedule calls for Tamalpais at Marin Catholic, Redwood at San Marin and Terra Linda at San Rafael, all at 8 p.m.

Novato posted the best preseason record of any Marin team, 9-2, but Redwood's Giants treated that with irreverence in Larkspur Tuesday to post a 52-49 victory.

The Hornets faced their old nemesis, a zone defense. Curtis Saine penetrated the heavy traffic in the middle for 16 points and Willie Barnes added 14, but the outside shooting wasn't there, and Novato trailed most of the way.

Drake, meanwhile, opened impressively enough by pulling away from Terra Linda for a 61-47 triumph, erasing the memory of last year, when Terra Linda started the season with an upset of the eventual champions.

Another memory which must

TO SUPER BOWL

Warfield Injury Could Be Key

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins without Paul Warfield are like bread without butter or bacon without eggs.

"He's their big play man," Minnesota Vikings' coach Bud Grant said yesterday, "it would make a big difference if he wasn't in there."

With Super Bowl VIII less than two days away, the Miami Dolphins today face the unhappy prospect of going into their biggest game of the season without Warfield.

The gifted wide receiver suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg Wednesday and the Dolphins wouldn't really speculate on his chances of playing Sunday.

Coach Don Shula, who has been tossing quips all week while Grant has been doing the complaining, let a bit of irritation show in his voice for the first time this week when newsmen pressed him on the chances that Warfield would be ready.

"I'm not holding anything back," he snapped. "I wish I could tell you more. But it's a wait and see situation.

Warfield could do nothing more yesterday than walk around the Houston Oilers' practice field in a sweatsuit as the rest of the players took part in the drill. Shula said it was unlikely he would do any running before the pre-game drills Sunday when a decision will be made on whether he can go.

Since he was walking without a bad limp, the chances are that Warfield will try to play. After all, the Dolphins have two players in uniform (Bob Kuechenberg and Jim Mandich) who have casts on their arms and steel pins in them and three more (Nick Buoniconti, Jake Scott and Tim Foley) who have steel pins or screws in their hand or shoulder.

"Our big worry is a lightning storm," Scott quips.

But the key question is how long Warfield can go if he does try to play and how effective he will be.

The Dolphins don't pass that much (Warfield has caught only 29 passes although 11 have been for touchdowns) but the coverage Warfield gets helps to open things up for the running game.

Grant said, "Miami doesn't usually have too many third-and-long plays so his absence might not hurt them as much as it would another team but he's obviously a key player."

The man who'll replace Warfield if he can't start is Howard Twilley, who started last year's Super Bowl but was injured during the exhibition season and lost his job

Casals, King, Evert To Head Slims Field

A doubles match will complete the evening's schedule.

Evert will be making her California debut and Casals will be making her first local competitive appearance in nearly a year.

GUESS WHAT HAPPENED — Johnny Miller's face and right hand told the story yesterday as his birdie putt missed the 18th hole in the $150,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament. Napa's Miller, the Bing Crosby winner last week, finished with a 69, two strokes behind co-leaders Mark Hayes and Artie McNickle. (UPI Telephoto)

IN PHOENIX GOLF

McNickle's Talk With Miller Pays Off

PHOENIX (UPI) — Artie McNickle, a second-year pro who earned less than $13,000 as a rookie, had a good talk with U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller and it paid dividends in the first round of the $150,000 Phoenix Open.

"I was playing poorly and he gave me encouragement," McNickle said of his talk with Miller before he shot 35-32–67 yesterday to share the opening round lead with rookie Mark Hayes.

"He gets down a little and I told him he's a better player," Miller said. "I didn't know it was going to help him, but if it did, fine."

Hayes was playing in only his fourth tournament, but was able to solve the Phoenix Country Club's rough greens better that most of the veterans. Hayes, who admitted the greens were "tough to read," had five birdies and a lone bogey over the par 36-35– 71 desert layout.

McNickle had an up and down round with seven birdies and three bogeys and was surprised he ended the day on top.

Playing in the morning before the greens got too rough, McNickle had predicted that with half the field yet to finish, "I don't think I'll be leading this tournament."

The greens came in for some criticism from the pros with Miller who had a 69, saying they had "as hard a grain to putt as I've ever seen," while defending champion Bruce Crampton, in at 71, called them "quite bumpy."

Five golfers were just a stroke behind the co-leaders, including veteran Miller Barber, the 1971 Phoenix winner. Tied with him were local player Paul Purtzer, Bob Wynn, Fred Marti and Larry Wood.

Nine others were tied at 69 with Miller, including Lanny Wadkins, who lost in a 1972 playoff here. Others were John Schroeder, John Mahaffey, Bobby Walzel, Mike McCullough, Jerry Heard, Kermit Zarley, Jim Hardy and Hubert Green. Napa's Ron Cerrudo carded a 73.

Lee Trevino, making his first appearance of the year, blamed a lack of practice for his 75.

"Last week, instead of practicing I wanted to watch them play in the mud," Trevino said as he explained how he watched the rain-troubled Bing Crosby tournament on television.

Trevino said he was driving good be erased, Drake feels, is the 62-60 loss inflicted at Novato a year ago.

Joining Drake and Redwood at the top of the pack after one game are San Rafael and Marin Catholic, both of whom go against teams which lost their openers.

Marin Catholic got a school record 33 points from Mike Mahoney in thumping San Marin, 84-60, and the Wildcats appear to be running well. Their pressure defense also was a major factor in that victory.

San Rafael beat Tam, 49-42, behind the scoring and rebounding of Byron Stewart, the 6-foot-7 center. Stewart's height figures to be trouble for Terra Linda, the league's smallest squad.

Likewise, Redwood's size with 6-7 center Darrell Elder may prove to be a problem for San Marin. Elder had 18 points and 12 rebounds against Novato. Two smaller players are off to fast starts as well, though — Redwood forward Neil Hennessy scored 20 points Tuesday and San Marin guard Bruce Smith bothered Marin Catholic for 24.

Mrs. Gondak Wins In Golf

Mrs. Charles Gondak won a charm with her net score of 78 and also had low gross (85) and fewest putts (29) yesterday as she led a field of 44 women's golfers at Marin Country Club in Novato.

The results:

Mount Joins Utah Of ABA

LEBANON, Ind. (UPI)-Rick Mount left his home yesterday to join the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association.

Mount, suspended Dec. 14 by the Kentucky Colonels, was traded to Utah Wednesday night.

The former Lebanon High School and Purdue scoring ace, who began his pro career with the Indiana Pacers, said he was glad to be back on the payroll for a club.

TANGLED UP — Chicago's Clifford Ray (right) and Atlanta's Dwight Jones last night got all wrapped up in their battle for possession of a first-half rebound in Atlanta. Jones took the ball, but the Bulls claimed the National Basketball Association victory, 116-104.

Troubled Times For Proud Rangers

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The year 1974 is proving to be memorable for the National Hockey League New York Rangers, but not in a happy way.

For "don't look now," but the once proud Rangers of Jean Ratelle, Vic Hadfield, Brad Park, Ed Giacomin et al today are a mere point ahead of the once expansionist Buffalo Sabres for the final fourth place playoff spot in the NHL east.

That eye-opening development occurred last night when the Sabres pounced on the slumping Rangers for five goals in the final period to skate off with a 7-2 victory. Thus the fourth place New Yorkers remain with 45 points while the Sabres have moved up to within one point of them with 44.

Elsewhere in the NHL last night, Montreal bombed the New York Islanders 8-3, Boston fought to a 2-2 deadlock with the Chicago Black Hawks and Philadelphia outscored the Minnesota North Stars 7-4. In the World Hockey Association Quebec downed the Los Angeles Sharks 7-1 while the Toronto Toros and New England deadlocked at 6-6.

In addition to Rick Martin's two goals (his 29th and 30th), the Sabres also got a pair from ex-Ranger Jim Lorentz, who opened the scoring with a power play goal in the first period and later put the Sabres ahead 2-1 in the second.

Frank Mahovlich, celebrating his 36th birthday with the go-ahead goal in the second period and Guy Lafleur, who tallied twice in the game, sparked Montreal to its runaway 8-3 triumph over the Islanders.

Phil Esposito's 38th goal of the season, coming with just 45 seconds left in the game, earned the Bruins that tie. Esposito took a pass in the slot 10 feet in front of the Chicago net and then slammed it by his brother Tony as Boston kept alive its 21-game home unbeaten streak.

Dave Schultz's second successive hat trick at home sparked the Flyers to their 7-4 win over Minnesota. Schultz scored twice in the first period and again in the final stanza as Philadelphia extended its lead over second place Chicago to two points in the NHL west.

Rejean Houle scored his first hat trick since jumping to the WHA to highlight Quebec's 7-1 romp over the Sharks and Toronto blew both a 5-0 lead and a chance to move into first place in the eastern division when New England battled back to gain a 6-6 tie.

FRANCIS TO COACH RANGERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Rangers took steps to improve their standing in the National Hockey League today by naming Emile Francis to replace Larry Popein as coach of the faltering blue shirts.

Francis will continue as general manager, the club said, and Popein has been offered a position with the Rangers in a scouting capacity.

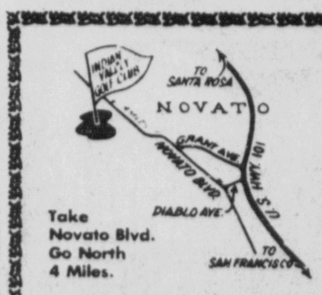

Popein appeared to generate some spirit as a freshman Ranger coach when the club went through an extended unbeaten string. But of late, the Rangers have been slipping in the Eastern Division standings.

New York dropped a 7-2 decision in Buffalo last night and are only one point ahead of the fifth place Sabres.

NBA Bulls' Problem Is Old Hat

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The problem is old hat for Chicago but if there's a vacancy in the leadership of the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division, the Bulls are ready to toss their hats into the ring.

"If Milwaukee stumbles and drops their hat, we'll be there to pick it up," said Chicago coach Dick Motta, whose Bulls manhandled the Atlanta Hawks 116-104 last night, but still trail the Bucks in the Midwest Division by three games.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Golden State Warriors pounded the Seattle SuperSonics 125-89.

In the American Basketball Association, the New York Nets bounced the San Antonio Spurs 105-93; the Kentucky Colonels trimmed the Carolina Cougars 101-98; and the San Diego Conquistadors edged the Indiana Pacers 109-107.

Motta was happy with the way the Bulls play, especially center Cliff Ray, but the fiery coach would be happier if the city of Chicago was located somewhere else on the map.

The Bulls have some pretty nice numbers next to their name in the NBA standings. In fact, the Bulls' 31-15 record is third best in the NBA, next to Boston and their Midwest Division neighbors from Wisconsin.

"It's unfortunate we're playing in the wrong division," said Motta. "But this is the fourth year it's been this way and we don't feel sorry for ourselves."

Billy Paultz' 19 points led a balanced attack which helped New York dispose of San Antonio.

Julius Erving, Larry Kenon and John Roche all chipped in with 18 points. San Antonio's James Silas led all scorers with 22.

With the score tied 96-96, Louie Dampier scored five straight points to give Kentucky the victory over Carolina.

Dampier and Dan Issel split 52 points while Jim Chones had a game-high 27.

Eight San Diego players scored in double figures, paced by Caldwell Jones' 17 points.

IN PADRES DEAL BID

Askanase Heads Houston Group

HOUSTON (AP) — Reuben Askanase, a Houston financier, has been reported heading a group that will seek to purchase the San Diego Padres baseball club in the National League.

The Houston Chronicle named Askanase yesterday as leader of the group. The newspaper said the Padres would remain in San Diego under the Askanase plan.

Askanase was unavailable for comment last night.

Club owners rejected Wednesday in Chicago a proposal to sell the San Diego club to a group that includes Marjorie Everett, a Los Angeles race track owner.

Askanase arranged a $38 million loan last year to consolidate the debts of the giant Astrodomain Corp. complex, which includes the Houston Astros baseball club, the Astrodome lease, the Astroworld amusements park and a group of hotels near the Astrodome.

He left the Astrodomain several months ago, saying he agreed to stay only a year to give financial assistance to Roy Hofheinz, head of the Astros and the entertainment complex. He was called in after Hofheinz suffered a stroke that has confined him to a wheelchair.

Views On NCAA Rule By Bryant, McKay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — In an era when they won nearly everything in sight, Bear Bryant of Alabama and John McKay of Southern California claim they really haven't had it all that good.

The two highly successful coaches were commenting in response to a question yesterday concerning the National Collegiate Athletic Association's new rule on football scholarships, a rule which switches the emphasis from one of dollars to one of bodies.

The rule, adopted during the recently completed NCAA convention, limits grants-in-aid in football to 30 bodies each year and 105 in all and to six each year in basketball and 18 total.

"We never hand out more than 17 or 18 football scholarships a year," said Bryant, "so the new rule doesn't mean a thing to us."

"On our 1973 team," said McKay, "we had a total of only 87 players on scholarships and that's a long way from 105, I'd like to have 105 boys on scholarship but the price of education has gone up and we can't afford it. A full ride at our school costs $4,200 a year. This past year I think we gave out only 17 full rides and the average in my years at USC is from 17 to 22."

McKay sees the new rule as one designed to help the have-nots catch up with the haves, and in that regard might be beneficial.

"For years I've been listening to charges about how I've been stealing all the good players," McKay said. "Sure, I've gotten my share but there also have been a lot of good players I didn't get.

"This rule should elevate the losers. No longer will they have any excuses. This looks like put-up or shut-up time to me. Now, we'll have to be more selective in our recruiting, and if we aren't," we'll have to eat our mistakes."

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Perseverance Pays For Duck Hunters

Talk about perseverance! Kurt Kalemba and Marty Medin, two of my Woodacre neighbors, have been duck hunting off and on for the past two weeks. They put in a recent weekend without getting a bird, hunting up on Kurt's club near Marysville.

They came home, rested for a week, then gave it another go. Again no birds last Saturday and Sunday, but this time they stayed over for the Monday shoot. By noon, they still had nothing!

THEN OUT OF nowhere, for no apparent reason, a flock of honkers — real honkers — came over their decoys, probably 20 yards high and directly over their blind. Marty shoots a double barreled shotgun, so he nails two. Kurt got one, then a jammed gun. Maybe it was the excitement, but whatever, the boys were still way up on cloud nine when they pulled into Woodacre that evening.

We weighed and took measurements of each of those prized birds. One weighed 10 pounds, the others nine pounds each. If you ever wonder why honkers look so big, it is because they ARE big. The wing spreads were six feet, one inch for the biggest bird and six feet for the other two. They were 30 inches long head to tail and had 25-inch girths. It was a first for each on getting a honker and the double for Marty is a rarity. They also picked up seven sprig later in the afternoon which made their day a super one.

Then of all things, Russ Ild of Mill Valley called to tell me that he got his first honker Wednesday near Colusa. Me? I was having a tooth pulled!

I CHECKED NINE fishermen at White House Pool early Wednesday. No one had a fish. Leo Claussen was there (he's the fellow who says fishing is best when the willows are in bloom). He took two fresh-run nine pound steelhead earlier this week and naturally he pointed as I talked to him at the blooming willow trees of that area.

As reported Tuesday, sturgeon fishing has been excellent. The tides this weekend aren't as good as those of last week, but try the areas closer to shore; those sturgeon have to be somewhere. They feed on the mud flats on high incoming tides if you can find the right area. Off China Camp and Hamilton Field should be good. Stripers? They're tough to find.

You don't want to catch all the fish around now anyway. The gang at Loch Lomond Live Bait and Tackle is starting another derby on Jan. 26 through Feb. 24. This derby will be a sturgeon and bass derby. Lots of prizes — 18 in all — including a Sony TV set and a $100 savings bond.

THE MARIN ROD and Gun Club of San Rafael is now selling reservations to their 47th birthday stag banquet on Jan. 26. No tickets are sold at the door, so you'd better get yours now. The tickets are $8 each, which includes a sea food salad, a half chicken, baked potato, French bread, desert and wine. And as you are feasting, you can be watching two hours of fabulous vaudeville. Each year, this event seems to be an A-1 event.

The banquet is held at the Marin Rod and Gun clubhouse located adjacent to the Marin side of the Richmond Bridge. Tickets are available through the Marin Rod and Gun Club, P. O. Box 900, San Rafael, CA 94902 or at the Western Sport Shop in San Rafael.

IN OTHER PARTS of the state, some interesting Fish and Game arrests were made recently. Deverous Frank, 22, of Crescent City, has been charged by the Humboldt County district attorney with four misdemeanor violations stemming from the shooting of two Roosevelt bull elk in Prairie Creek State Park.

Warden Richard Elliot of Klamath reported he discovered a pickup truck containing nearly 600 pounds of elk meat and two sets of elk antlers after citizens called the fish and game to report the park incident.

Results of laboratory tests comparing meat found in the truck with remains found in the park and information from witnesses led to the charges.

The two bull elk, estimated to have weighed from 600 to 700 pounds each, were among several hundred Roosevelt elk which roam in and around the state park located about 30 miles north of Eureka.

No elk hunts were authorized in California for the 1973-74 hunting season.

FOR THE 10TH TIME since 1969, fisherman Robert Lee Kelley, 24, of Rio Linda, has been cited by wardens for a variety of fishing violations.

He has had his angling license revoked twice by the Fish and Game Commission.

Last month, he was charged in a complaint filed by Warden Rober D. Hawks of Yuba City with fishing without a license — his fishing license having been suspended.

In the Yuba City justice court, Kelley paid a fine of $250 and had his fishing gear forfeited.

Cappelletti Plays With A Black Eye

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti will be playing in tomorrow's 23rd annual Senior Bowl game with a black eye.

Coach Mike McCormack of the Philadelphia Eagles, said Cappelletti of Penn State suffered a cut under his eye during a practice session wednesday. Five stitches were required to close the wound.

"It won't affect his playing status, but he will have a black eye," McCormack said yesterday.

Cappelletti gained 1,572 yards during his final season with the Nittany Lions, and he was declared the best player in college football—the winner of the coveted Heisman.

He is one of seven All-Americans set to perform for the North. The football game, which begins at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Ladd Memorial Stadium, will be televised nationally (Bay Area Channels 3 and 4).

The others include starting quarterback David Jaynes of Kansas, who will be offensive captain; wide receiver Lynn Swann of Southern California; linemen Daryl White and John Dutton of Nebraska and Lucius Selmon of Oklahoma, and defensive back Artimus Parker of Southern Cal.

The South has only two first-team All Americans — center Billy Wyman of Texas and offensive lineman Buddy Brown of Alabama — on the 31-man roster coached by Don McCafferty of the Detroit Lions.

Danny White of Arizona State, tapped to start at quarterback for the South; running back Woody Green of Arizona State, and defensive back Eddie Brown of Tennessee were second team All-Americas.

Linebacker Ed O'Neil tf Penn State will be defensive captain for the North and White and linebacker Waymon Bryant of Tennessee State will be captains of the south squad.

The South, winners of the 1973 game, 33-30, has 18 victories, 8 defeats and 2 ties in the game which was played first in 1950 at Jacksonville, Fla., and McCafferty is giving nothing away in spite of the larger number of All-Americas on the North squad.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Impressive Game By Long Beach

Long Beach State's basketball team showed it's still awesome without two of its stars and tonight UCLA will test its own strength without Bill Walton against California.

Long Beach last night played its first game since being put on indefinite probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for recruiting violations. Two starters were declared ineligible and the team was barred from postseason playoffs.

The 49ers nevertheless rolled over Pacific 72-53 with a 65 per cent shooting performance. Massive Leonard Gray was sensational with 13 of his 14 shots going through the bucket and Clifton Pondexter, the freshman sensation whose big brother Roscoe was one of the players banished, dominated the boards with 14 rebounds. The other exile is Glen McDonald.

Long Beach is now 11-1 while it was only Pacific's second loss in 10 starts.

In other Pacific Coast Athletic Association openers, a San Jose State team that keeps surprising even its most diehard fans got 48 points from backcourters Pete Miller and Ken Mickey and thumped San Diego State 81-69. Bobby Taylor's layup with 30 seconds to play gave Los Angeles State the 79-69 nod over University of California at Santa Barbara.

Meanwhile, the surprise word from Los Angeles is that Bill Walton won't start when toprated UCLA hosts Cal tonight and Stanford tomorrow afternoon. It will be 7-1 soph Ralph Drollinger in the pivot while Walton, who took a hard tumble last Monday at Washington State, rests his aching back. Walton has appeared in 70 straight varsity games. Nobody is betting against the Bruins anyway, especially in view of Drollinger's fine work in relief of Walton in the crucial minutes against North Carolina State.

In other Pac-8 action, Stanford is at USC tonight while Washington State calls on an Oregon team that is 2-0 in league play and Washington State is at Oregon State.

The West Coast Athletic Conference also gets going with San Francisco at Pepperdine, Santa Clara at Loyola, Nevada Las Vegas at St. Mary's and Nevada Reno at Seattle.

Pepperdine, which has shown little so far, could be a real contender in that WCAC race along with favorites Nevada Las Vegas and USF. The waves announced that Brazil Olympic star Marcos Leite, a 6-10 pivot man, has joined the team and is expected to play this week. He averaged 23.2 points at the Munich Olympics.

In one more game yesterday, small college power U.C. Irvine thumped Quinnipiac 96-74 to run its record to 8-3. Irvine hit 61 per cent of its shots as Scott Magnuson scored 28 points and grabbed 11 rebounds.

Sonoma State Five To Host Stanislaus

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Far Western Conference basketball race, having shown early signs of being close, resumes tonight with three games.

Defending champion Sonoma State has a nonconference game, at home against Stanislaus State, tonight at 8 o'clock and then hosts Sacramento State tomorrow night at 8 in conference play.

The San Francisco State Gators will play at Chico State in one of tonight's FWC matches. Both teams were involved in close games when the conference season opened last week, with San Francisco edging Hayward State 54-53 and Chico losing 75-73 to UC-Davis.

Sacramento State will play its first FWC game of the year, at Humboldt State, and Hayward will be at Davis in tonight's other games. On Saturday night, Hayward will be at Chico and San Francisco at Davis.

Sonoma, Davis and San Francisco share the early conference lead with 1-0 records from the opening weekend.

Foreman-Middleton Tiff Nears

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Heavyweight champion George Foreman, under increasing pressure to defend his title more often, may be headed for a title match with Baltimore contender Larry Middleton.

Baltimore fight promoter, Eli Hanover, said yesterday that he's trying to arrange the march and "there's no question both fighters are interested."

"The only problems," Hanover said, "are monetary."

The World Boxing Association has made public its concern about Foreman's lack of title bouts since he won the crown from Joe Frazier a year ago. Foreman's only defense came against unspectacular Joe Roman, who was knocked out in the first round.

Hanover said he is confident that some agreement can be reached for a fight to be held Feb. 20 at the Baltimore Civic Center. He said he has been working on the deal for a month and expects an answer from Foreman within a few days.

Hanover said Foreman had requested a $250,000 guarantee plus 40 per cent of the gate, but has since lowered his demands. According to Hanover, the package he offered Foreman calls for the champion to receive $150,000 plus $10,000 in transportation expenses or 40 per cent of the live gate plus 50 per cent of the television rights.

The WBA could vote to strip Foreman of his title unless a bout is scheduled soon.

Foreman's prospective opponent was ranked as high as ninth by the WBA last year, but two losses by Middleton to Denver Heavyweight Ron Lyle dropped him out of the ratings.

Middleton, a counterpuncher not known as a knockout artist, may have shaken that reputation now with his knockout of heavyweight Jack O'Halloran last month.

According to Hanover, a television network has offered more than $100,000 for the rights to the fight, and the deal could be finalized if the fighters sign up for the bout.

Tam Matmen Overwhelm San Rafael

Tamalpais High School, evidently determined to capture another Marin County Athletic League wrestling championship, scored an overwhelming 53-11 victory over San Rafael yesterday on the Bulldogs' mat.

Yesterday's other match saw Terra Linda defeat visiting Novato, 39-15.

Tam, which tied Terra Linda and Redwood for the title last year, recorded seven pins yesterday — by Larry Sibbalauca (95 pounds), Ron Ford (112), Greg Shaughnessy (127), Tim Shaughnessy (145), Bob Praszker (154), Tom Hunt (175) and Mike Lamb (191).

The victory moved Tam into undisputed first place with a 2-0 record. The Trojans beat Terra Linda Tuesday, 34-15.

Terra Linda appeared to overwhelm Novato yesterday, but several of the matches were close, including one in which Paul Benedict (103) escaped in the last second for a 1-0 victory.

SPORTS, BOAT SHOW

Outdoorsman's Fun Indoors

It's an outdoorsman's paradise indoors.

More than 600 exhibits will fill the mammoth halls and pavilions of the San Francisco Cow Palace during the 32nd annual San Francisco Sports and Boat Show opening today and running through Jan. 20.

Outdoorsmen will see everything from sailboats, hoseboats, cruisers, inflatable boats and canoes to camping equipment, fishing tackle, skin diving gear and campers. Trailers and motor homes will also be featured in the show running 2 to 11 p.m. weekdays, 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sundays.

Among the special features are:

The Neptune, queen of the show. It's Chris Craft's new 41-foot luxury flush deck cruiser. The pleasure craft will occupy the flagship position at the front of the vast Cow Palace center arena.

The Mark Spitz Boat, considered the wildest vessel afoat. The Spitz is powered by a Schick razor and is completed with ice box and a wood-carved figure of the 1972 Olympics swim star extending from the bow.

The Good Gravy is the only such boat in existence. It has a five horsepower Chrysler outboard and looks like a gravy dish.

The new Remington Room in the Hall of Guns contains antique and modern firearms spanning 125 years of weapons development.

The duck decoy collection of Sonoma's August Sebastiani will highlight the Hall of Guns display. The winemaker has one of the rarest collections in California.

The new Yukon exhibit in Vacationland will give viewers the opportunity to guess when the ice will break on the Yukon River and Dawson City in the Yukon territory of Canada.

The Huck Finn fish pond will be the top children's attraction, where youngsters can fish for free trout.

The Hall of Camping will show the latest in recreation vehicles.

The new line of campers trailers and motor homes have many gas-saving models, bright new colors and innovative designs, including Ford's new American Road camper. It is 11½ feet long and is aerodynamically designed to reduce air drag and increase gas mileage.

Sailboats of every size and shape will also share the spotlight. The largest one will be Columbia's 45 footer, a luxury model with an exterior trim of solid teak. The smallest will be the Windsurfer shown by Glenn Taylor of Bay Surf Windsurfers In Menlo Park. It resembles a surfboard with a sail and can reach a speed of 20 knots.

The "Crown Royal" Holiday Mansion is quite a bit bigger at 51 feet but no less intriging. It is a catamaran cruiser with flying bridge and all-electric galley.

Cost for the show is $2 for adults and 75 cents for children.

Seals Face Lowly Vancouver

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals, trying to find out if Wednesday's performance was for real, meet fellow cellar-dweller Vancouver in National Hockey League play tonight at 8 o'clock.

Each team has piled up just 23 points in their respective divisions, but the Seals got four goals from Ivan Boldirev Wednesday night in an 8-6 win over St. Louis. Boldirev had never even tallied three in a contest before his explosion.

That tied one team record and the three tallies in an 86-second span set another one.

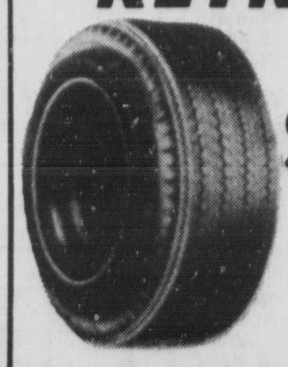

More good news occurred yesterday when Gilles Meloche, the little goalie lost since he lacerated tendons in his right hand Nov. 28, began working out yesterday and backup netminder Marve Edwards will have the cast on his injured knee removed this week. Meloche should be back on the ice next week.

Tonight's tussle will be the second game of a four-game homestand, with New York moving in Sunday night and Toronto next Wednesday. The Seals are within two points of Pittsburgh in the West going into tonight's action.

Education Board Member To Quit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Charging the state Board of Education has become a rubber stamp for "policies loaded with progressive socialism," member Clay N. Mitchell yesterday asked not to be reappointed to a second term.

In a letter to Gov. Ronald Reagan, the retired South Laguna businessman said he found the "philosophy of the board has radically changed since 1970 as new appointments have been made."

Mitchell was named in 1970 to the 10-member board, the first to be totally comprised of Reagan appointees. His term expires next Tuesday.

A Republican and former member of the Orange County Board of Education, Mitchell charged that the "broad emphasis and programming for quality education for all children has faded away. Educational sociology replaces educational excellence as a goal."

Mitchell asserted the board has insulated itself from the public and local school officials, and has ceased to be a policy making body.

"It has become a 'rubber stamp,' active principally in endorsing and approving policies created elsewhere and brought to it — policies loaded with progressive socialism." He cited no specific examples.

Mitchell told the board yesterday he preferred to "concentrate in areas where I can be more effective." He added: "I'm tired of going round and round."

Responding to the letter, board President Newton L. Steward of Eureka told Mitchell, "You have been a very, very important member of this board."

In other action during the board's regular monthly meeting, members were told the state's special school program for slow readers in early grades is paying off with better reading scores and improved attitudes among students.

A preliminary report from the Department of Education said two studies of the Miller-Unruh reading specialist program prove that it is deserving of a continued high educational priority.

The report covered the last two school years. An estimated 166,000 students in grades one through three were given the special reading instruction under the $18.5 million program during the 1972-73 school year, the department said.

6.5 Million Could Get Tax Refunds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — More than 6.5 million Californians should get some form of state income tax refund for 1973, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy said yesterday.

Flournoy also predicted that refunds "will far exceed the $369 million refunded to income taxpayers last year."

Refunds, he said, would be as follows:

4.5 million persons who overwithheld their state income tax.

1 million persons eligible for the one-time Special Tax Credit approved by the Legislature.

750,000 persons eligible for the new Tax Credit for Renters.

226,000 refunds to nonwithholding taxpayers.

Flournoy, a Republican gubernatorial contender, urged taxpayers to look on Page 2 of the State Income Tax Form 540 for special instructions concerning the one-time Special Tax Credit and the Tax Credit for Renters.

"If those instructions are followed and the tax form properly completed and signed with social security number included, we are prepared to issue refunds within two days after receiving the refund information from the Franchise Tax Board," he said.

Energy Bill Seen As Top Senate Business

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said yesterday the "first order of business" before the Senate when it recovenes Jan. 21 will be enactment of the emergency energy bill that was blocked by filibusters before Christmas.

After that, he said, he would introduce bills providing for the federal chartering of oil companies, to prohibit the 22.5 per cent depletion allowance for firms based overseas and to "vastly" step up oil exploration, particularly off the U.S. Continental Shelf.

Jackson told a news conference he had talked with Senator Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., who assured leadership support for moving for immediate action on the emergency bill, which Jackson said was blocked by the White House.

He said that if filibusters against the measure are resumed, he is confident cloture to shut off debate can be obtained, "because congressmen will be coming back from their districts more interested than ever in passing tough energy legislation."

Jackson, chairman of the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, described his proposal to charter oil companies as "historic." Not since the days of President Theodore Roosevelt at the beginning of this century has an effort been made to charter oil firms.

The measure would require a federal public representative on the board of directors of the companies under charter, public disclosure on oil stocks on hand and public disclosure of profits and reserves.

Governor's Salary Hike Plan Is Hit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California State Employees' Association (CSEA) yesterday called state worker salary increases in Gov. Ronald Reagan's 1974- 75 proposed budget "meager."

Reagan's budget proposed a 7 per cent civil service increase over what workers are now receiving and a 3 per cent increase in fringe benefits.

But John B. Matheny, president of the 103,000-member CSEA, contended the increases amounted to only a 5.8 per cent hike and said, "The governor let the workers of this state down."

Matheny said the budget contained funds for an average 2.7 per cent increase for civil service employees, plus funding of 4.2 per cent cut from 1973 raises by the Cost of Living Council, and 3.1 per cent in benefits.

"The 4.2 per cent that the governor included as new money is what the employes should be getting now anyway," Matheny said. "That's the amount cut from the state employee salaries last year, and they have been waiting for it since July 1, 1973."

Nutrition Labeling Proposed For Meat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department yesterday proposed a plan under which processors making nutrition claims for processed meat and poultry would have to spell out on labels exactly how much protein, fat, calories and carbohydrates the products contain.

Officials said use of the proposed new nutrition labeling system, which already has been adopted for all other foods by the Food and Drug Administration, would be voluntary for processors who do not make nutrition claims. However, the system would be mandatory for processors making such claims or who enrich their products with added vitamins, minerals or protein.

In other words, officials explained, a processor using the term "high in protein" on labels or advertising would be compelled to back it up with specific facts on the label.

Processors who voluntarily adopt the nutrition label plan even though not compelled to do so would —if they elect to use nutrition labels —be required to conform to the same regulations covering products which make nutrition claims. The rules specify the precise type of nutrition information to be furnished and the way it must be placed on consumer package.

Officials said public comment on the proposal will be accepted until April 19 and a final decision on its adoption will be made after comments are studied.

Under the proposal, labels would show the size of an individual serving, number of servings per package, and the calorie, fat, protein and carbohydrate content of each serving. Where products require cooking, the label would show amounts of nutrients remaining after cooking.

Also, officials said, the label would show what percentage each serving furnishes of recommended daily amounts of protein, vitamins A and B, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, calcium and iron.

Spokesmen said nutrition labels would have to be approved by the Agriculture Department's poultry and meat inspection service and processors using the labels would have to develop plant quality control programs to assure their products live up to claimed nutrition content.

Officials said processors who add nutrients for "technological" reasons, such as use of vitamin C as a curing agent rather than a nutrient, will not be compelled to use nutrition labeling.

Nine In College Election Race

Four women and five men are seeking seven seats on the board of the Associated Students of the College of Marin in an election continuing through Wednesday.

Balloting began last Wednesday for seats on the board which controls a $50,000 yearly budget and sponsors such programs as the college's child care center.

Persons elected to the board will serve during the spring semester and will choose a student body president for the association.

Seeking election are Patricia Challender, Debbie Farani, Walter Kopp, Susan Perry, Mark Riordan, Philip Skow, Gerald Stocker, Robin Williams and Richmond Young.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Opponents Can Score An Upset By Breaking Some Old Rules

Ever since the days of whist, great-grandfather of modern contract bridge, defenders have been advised to play "third hand high." It is a good rule, but even the best of rules should occasionally be broken.

Opening lead ♠ 2

EAST'S POSITION

West opens the deuce of spades, and dummy's nine is played. Should East play the queen?

Don't ask foolish questions. East has already played the queen, in the average bridge game, and is now on the third or fourth trick. This says more for East's speed than for his judgment.

MUST PLAY LOW

If East plays the queen of spades, he tosses the defense right out of the window. If East plays a low spade, instead of the queen, he can defeat the contract.

Suppose East makes the mistake of putting up the queen. South wins with the king of spades. Now dummy has a second sure spade trick. South knocks out the king of diamonds and gets a spade return. He wins two spades, four diamonds and three clubs, making his game contract.

SAVE QUEEN

Suppose East allows dummy to win the first trick with the nine of spades. Declarer gets to his hand with a club in order to try the diamond finesse.

East wins with the king of diamonds and returns a low spade. The king and ace fall on this trick, leaving East's queen in command of the suit. The defenders get three spades, one diamond and one heart, defeating the contract.

VERY UNLIKELY

Can East lose a trick by refusing to play third hand high at the first trick? Only if West has led from a suit headed by both the ace and king. This is very unlikely, for why would declarer bid notrump with only one or two small spades and why would West fail to lead the king of spades first if his suit is headed by both tops?

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A 8 7 2
♥ - A 8 4
♦ - 6 3
♣ - 9 6 5 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

If partner makes any further move toward game, you will cooperate. This is maximum value for a simple raise.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Commodities A Risky Venture

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have several friends who have done very well in the commodity market. I can afford to speculate and would like your opinion on this form of investment. — A.L.

A. The key word here is speculation, since trading commodity futures is purely a speculation, not an investment. While a secure financial position and a good supply of venture capital are necessary, steady nerves and the ability to be wholly objective are prime requisites for success in this "wild and woolly" market.

Before you make the plunge you should do some studying to familiarize yourself with the modus operandi of commodity trading. Then, narrow your study to a few specific commodities, getting information on supply/demand, inventories, export/import situation and anticipated consumption. Depending on which commodities you have selected, factors such as government subsidies, Dept. of Agriculture crop reports, international monetary exchange rates and long-range weather reports are important.

Markets are also affected by conditions in competitive or contingent commodities, so if these exist you should familiarize yourself with them. For instance, a shortage of copper would affect aluminum futures or soybean scarcity would help sorghum. Information is available from the commodity market letters, brokerage houses which deal in this market and from the news media. In addition to fundamental factors, there is the technical side of the market requiring an understanding of open interest, volume and price chart patterns.

Margin requirements are significantly lower than on securities. Typically, contracts are purchased for 5 per cent to 10 per cent down. With this degree of leverage, risk is obviously increased greatly. Commission costs run to $30 to $45 — on average — for the contract, which includes both purchase and sale. From a tax standpoint there is greater flexibility particularly as to holding periods.

Market On High Side; Light Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices moved higher in light trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

With the exception of gold mining and petroleum issues, most groups were higher with the glamors attracting the most buying.

The gold mining selloff, following recent large gains, drove down Dome Mines by 3 ¾, ASA Ltd. 2 ⅝, Campbell Redlake 2 and Homestake 1 ⅜.

Oils and oil field equipment issues opened higher, then turned mixed. Schlumberger added 3 points, Kerr-McGee 1 ⅝ and Natomas 1 ¾ among those moving higher, and Superior lost 1 ¾ and Getty a point among those on the downside.

U. S. Industries was the most active issue on the Big Board, losing a point to 7 on turnover of 113,100 shares that included one block of 23,500 shares at 7 ½ and another of 40,000 at 7.

Prices were narrowly higher on the American Stock Exchange, where advances outnumbered declines by a 4-to-3 margin. Trading was very light. Houston Oil was the most actively traded issue at midday, off ¼ at 46 ½ on 27,900 shares.

Temporary Office Workers Needed

Colleges Facing Financial Crisis

NEW YORK (AP) — The impact of the financial crisis in higher education will hit the public hardest, said Martin Meyerson, when a sizable university goes bankrupt.

Meyerson, president of the University of Pennsylvania, believes it will have the same shock effect as the failure of the Penn Central, which was not just the nation's biggest railroad but one of its largest corporations.

Many small colleges already have closed and some of the nation's larger institutions aren't very far from the same unfortunate fate. And the reasons are the same as those in business: income doesn't match outgo.

The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education predicted last year that by 1980 colleges and universities will face a $51 billion gap between income and expenditures, and the prospects for raising the money aren't good.

Americans, while they have some of the most prestigious universities, contribute a lower percentage of Gross National Product to support higher education than in many other developed nations.

If some universities go under, Meyerson believes, it could foretell problems for other voluntary institutions, including churches and church-related social programs, health care, museums, orchestras and other arts.

As with the energy and environmental problems, he said, the nation is failing to heed some of the overt signals emanating from the campuses, among them:

Competition from state universities, especially in the Northeast, where some of the largest independent insitutions find themselves competing with suddenly enlarged state universities.

While voluntary giving looks pretty good, in Meyerson's view, many of the gifts today came with restrictions or limitations on their use.

The middle-income family has been caught in a terrible crush. It costs about $5,000 a year to send a student to a school of Penn's stature, and many middle-income families have two youngsters in college simultaneously.

Operating expenditures are rising. Payrolls are the big expenditure for universities and it is difficult to cut them. Automation might aid a corporation, but it is less likely to be of great value to a university.

The college population has ceased growing, studies show. That means the growth of tuition income will slow. And for colleges geared for big enrollments that can mean serious troubles.

Since the bulk of university income is from tuitions, Meyerson believes that a substantial loan program for students, perhaps government insured in the manner of some home mortgage loans, would help immediately.

"If it was national policy that any able student could borrow for tuition, room and board you'd have a different situation," he said, in regard to the crush on parental and university budgets.

Another Bubble Machine Car Wash Planned In San Rafael

Another Bubble Machine car wash, the second in Marin County, is being planned in San Rafael next to Wiltshire Towers, across from the Marin County Civic Center.

The property, owned by Shaun Wiltshire, was leased to Standard Oil, which is subleasing to the Bubble Machine, headquartered in San Francisco.

Earl Foss, area manager for construction and development for the Bubble Machine company, said the new Bubble Machine will be unique in that water used in the car wash will be 100 per cent reclaimed. He said the construction time table is not yet definite because he wants to coordinate the building with Wiltshire's plans to renovate the motel. "We're hoping to get the green light in about 90 days," said Foss.

The first Bubble Machine in Marin is operating at 1515 Second Street in San Rafael. It is landscaped and reclaims 95 per cent of its water. The new Bubble Machine near Wiltshire Towers will be of the same quality as the first, with even more landscaping, said Foss. The Bubble Machine company has 35 locations in California, with four more under construction.

EUGENE J. NABER of Marinwood, senior government appraiser in the Marin County Assessor's office, took over this month as president of the Society of Governmental Appraisers, a national organization with representation in six states. He will serve during the 1974 calendar year.

Naber has been with the county assessor's staff for 12 years. The Society of Governmental Appraisers, organized in 1964, is dedicated to the development of professionalism in persons employed as appraisers for governmental agencies.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Short Form 1040A Is Quick And Simple If You Can Use It

Short Form 1040A is back again. This is a good form for you to use if your itemized deductions do not exceed 15 per cent of your adjusted gross income or $2,000. If you can use this form, it is quick, simple and easy. All you do is answer some very simple questions like your name, address, social security number, your filing status and exemptions.

Be sure to check the instructions carefully. There are many of us who cannot use Form 1040A.

If you use Form 1040A, you automatically claim the low-income allowance and standard deduction allowed by law for personal expenses such as taxes, contributions, interest payments, medical expenses, etc. If your allowable deduction for these times is in excess of 15 per cent of your adjusted gross income or $2,000, you should use Form 1040 and itemize your deductions.

You are expected to pay your taxes on the lowest basis possible and if you have much in the way of itemized deductions, employee deductions or business expense, you should check to see if you would be better off to use the long form.

If you elect to have IRS compute your tax for you and there is any additional tax due, they will send you a bill. This can result in your having a little extra time in which to pay the tax due since, otherwise, you have to pay it on April 15.
